Journey to be Hunatian, Next Generation Human, Preparation

A Self Designed Path to Regenerative Living

Welcome to the journey to be Hunatian.

Vision: A transformative journey that guides individuals to reflect, understand and design their own lifestyle to be the best version of self this world needs, rooted in ancient wisdom, real world challenges and future.

BECOMING HUNATIAN

Why To Be Hunatian?

Because this world needs you to be the best version of you as Humans living on Earth. simple. This world needs such humans who know it all, who see the loop, who see the hole, who see problems in this world, who are willing to find answers to these problems, who can sacrifice self desires for a better future for mankind and earth's future too.

Look at this failing social system we have created and are living in it. its killing us humans, its killing nature, its killing future. It's crazy and this world and future need a human who sees these things, feels these things happening, and who can change this system.

In this era, look how this failing system has made everything chaotic, distractions everywhere, manipulation, influences, war, poverty, possession, greed. We are trapped inside this system that doesn't allow us to make time to think, reflect, question our existence, forget about finding purpose and maintain our visions, work towards our goal and maintain discipline. Parents start raising us, pushing us towards their wishes and demands. Friends call to party or do this and that to kill our loneliness and pain away. School forces us to learn what we actually don't need. Society starts putting pressure too to earn a living and maintain status. In the name of work, job, we are just roaming and running around here and there in this rat race to earn money. We marry soon and have a child hoping it would fill our holes, but again we will end up doing the same to new children. By the time we realize we have made the same mistake, it will be too late. friends will have gone now, parents have gone too. and you quit and let it be. supporting this failing system knowingly or unknowingly. And there are phones distracting, it is everywhere.

In this time, no one has control over self, own life, we have forgotten our own past, present and future. We are puppets serving this profit based failing social structure. We are slaves of corporations. Corporates decide our fate. They decide what we choose from mass media and advertisements. They decide what we like and dislike from social media. We are losing freedom. we are becoming machines.

These people can not change the world. they are blinded by self, money, greed, hunger, possession, destruction. they will leave nothing for future generations and any one around, not humans, not nature, no one. they are in the rat race to have it all for themselves.

And it's not good, is it?

So, if you see what we see, if you don't want to be blind any more, if you want to discover your true purpose and responsibilities, if you want to act, if you want change, if you want control of your life back on your hands, if you want to sharpen your will, be independent, stronger, creative, freethinker, self reliant, multiskilled, if you want to sharpen your creativity, if you want to understand yourself, bond with nature and cosmos, if you want to have a vast knowledge and skills about life itself, science, nature's law and everything, you have to try to explore the journey to be Hunatian, this journey will make sure so you won't be easily manipulated, controlled, and tricked by this failing social system and rat race for money aka profit any more.

Be ready to change..

Who Are Hunatians?

Hunatians are those who are alive, curious seekers and wanderers, travellers and explorers, researchers and builders, protectors of earth, truth keepers. those who believe there is a more fruitful life beyond this failing social system rat race for money and profit. Hunatians are those who see problems with this failing social system driven by a profit based economy and want to find alternative social structure and system.

Hunatians are those who refused to fit in a job from corporate and those who didn't buy the idea of being a master of one skill alone, they are multi skilled individuals.

Hunatians are those humans, who look for knowledge about self, physical, mental and spiritual body. who wants to know what they are made of and what they are capable of. Who wants knowledge about how to sharpen self, sense organs, physics and spirit, how to make routine, discipline, to enhance yourself everyday.

Hunatians are those who look for knowledge of nature, earth, where we live, our home, our bonds, natural elements, how each element affects us, like what is the effect of tree, food, sun, moon, stars.

Hunatians are those who seek knowledge about society, how they function, psychology, behavior, interconnections, giving, roles and responsibilities. Hunatians are those who seek knowledge about farming, harvesting, storing, distributing, love and community. Hunatians are those who seek knowledge about life and everything.

Hunatians are those who want a healthy earth, self and future. They are those who seek self mastery, self control, self discipline, self growth and make routine, discipline, for it. They are those who have visions, who know the past, living in the present and who are working for the future. Hunatians are those who are responsible towards self, mother earth, friends, family, future generations and time to come and everything.

Hunatians are those who are hard to manipulate, distract and control as by this failing social system. They are hard to trick, control, trap, hard to gain trust from. They are very independent, intuitive, they are very creative, rational thinkers, kind and wise too.

Hunatians are the future of earth. This earth needs hunatians. This earth needs healing. And hunatians are the kind of people who can do so with the vast knowledge of life itself, future itself,

When You Become Hunatian?

By the end of this journey, what will you learn? Who you will become?:

You will become a human this world will need in the coming future. A kind of human, who has knowledge and understanding about the past, present and coming future. Humans who have knowledge about both worlds, eastern and western worlds, their ideology, psychology, philosophies, culture and mindsets.

Humans who have knowledge about self, own constructs of mind, body and soul, having knowledge of how to enhance and sharpen yourself everyday, take care of themselves and others.

You will also learn how to educate yourself, travel, and keep growing.

Who understands bond with nature earth and space,

Who have knowledge from astrology science of space bodies,

Vastu science of earth elements,

Who has knowledge about yoga, meditation,

Ayurveda, herbs, food.

Have knowledge about spirituality, karma, responsibilities, duties, being human.

You will start to feel responsible towards yourself, family, community, nature, and future, all human fells, fella animals and plants and earth.

Have knowledge about how to prepare yourself and live for the coming generation's future and kids.

How to take care of older generation people.

How to work with people of the same generation.

You will basically learn about everything k.

By the end you will awake and start to see the world. You will learn to be independent, creative and critical thinker, peaceful, focused, so no one can easily manipulate you, control you, trick you, dominate and control you.

First of all you will stop lying to yourself, you can not trick yourself too.

You will build so much confidence, love and blissfulness inside you. You will grow self respect, trust yourself more, build courage more, believe self, discipline self, you will be pure, just like how they have written in old books of godly characters. you will be god like characters, you will slowly start to be like them.

See we all have a part to play on earth as humans and you will discover your role too. You will tap into your subconscious minds and awaken your inner strength, visions, and purposes of life itself. You will be a complete human. Pure, healthy, wealthy, smart, wise, knowledgeable, kind, ethical, humble, responsible, creative, loving, strong, call it what you want. Call you god. Call it hunatians, call it next generation humans. Capable of wonder, seek, explore, understand, critic, analyse, judge, organize, plant, change, adopt, build, create, and evolve and share.

And imagine becoming such humans, no politicians can trick you, lie to you.

No religion can make you follow blindly. No teacher and guru can misguide you. No media can manipulate you. You will have total control over your sense organs and how information flows around you and the universe. You will be able to filter them and organize them as needed, you will be able to see the bigger picture of this world and future and past. You will be invincible. Nobody can destroy you.

So, there's so much you can gain from his journey.

If you live for 70 to 80 years, just giving 3 months of 1 hour a day, you will gain a lot, more than a school can teach in 20 years. You will start to feel complete. You must be feeling lost, empty without visions, purpose, goals, reasons. After this time and journey, you will be able to filter all the unwanted and implanted confusions, goals, desires, targets, and start to clarify your life and visions..

You will clearly start to see what are fake dreams, fake wants, fake passions and start focusing on truth and what matters, for you, family, society, kids and future and nature all together.

Now tell me what else would you need? More than clarification in life? How to be happy, how to be rich, successful, these are bullshit things, everything will start to follow naturally once you are complete with this journey to be hunatian. You will grow above confusions.

So stay tuned and be ready for change.

Way To Be Human

One must understand that most research, experiments, findings done on life, humans, food, medicine, society, children, psychology, space, religion, spirituality, and education are subjective. Actually what I mean is, how do we know if they are true? Who is doing this research? Who is funding them? Who is publishing them? Why are they not teaching everyone to research on their own at home? Why are tools to research and learn not made common to humans? What does it take?

Every research and experiment seems to be done in a controlled environment for a short period of time by someone else, somewhere else; it is not you

Modern science and technology, meant to enlighten us, are often not truly free for normal citizens. This knowledge is capitalized and, in many ways, kept from public use and advantage. A few hold the data, science, and technologies; they control the knowledge, and knowledge is power. While some information is freely available online, it's often over polluted and confusing, leading to more mistrust and misguidance than liberation. For example, if you want to understand your own body, physical, mental, spiritual, or learn about the effects of natural food, environment, colors, water, or how to farm, you'll find tons of information online, but it's overwhelming. Everyone claims they're right, creating more confusion than clarity. Another thing is we all must understand that human life is not a result of a closed box experiment and fixed time. We are connected with billions of years of data and evolution and there is no way as they claim and force us to use one medicine for every person on earth, one school and book system for every human on earth. one nation's narrative for every human on earth. Something very wrong is happening with this world.

It shouldn't be this hard to understand the human body, the effects of different natural food, environment, colors, water, climates, clothes, or diseases. We have technologies to travel to space, even survive there. We have science and technology to print DNA and scan the whole Earth to understand every element, resource, and pollutant. Yet, this essential knowledge is not freely available to the public. Why?

There's no one trusted place to look for the truth. Every scientist, doctor, and engineer is, in some ways, possessed, capitalized, or controlled. In this era, it's hard to believe who is speaking the truth, or how long that truth will remain true, because we've seen truths and realities change for personal benefits as time passes.

We've found that many ancient cultures and books from different cultures around the world already understand the human body, nature, and space in their own ways. But language and words are a problem here because we all are focused on adopting English as our global language. and language tends to lose its true meaning and context over time, causing many ancient texts to be misunderstood or even hidden by the modern economic system. We must be very open to these insights. Why are we not using this knowledge to build foundations and accept them in this so called modern world?

For example, the wisdom of Yoga, Meditation, and Ayurveda holds vital knowledge based on nature, yet it's often criticized by the modern world simply because it doesn't belong to their culture, or fit into their narratives of world history, politics, and corporate agendas.

So as Hunate, it is important for every individual to have a sense of:

Self reliant

Self experience

Self exploration

Self observation

Self reflection

Self analysis

Self intuition

... to know the truth. one must learn to be truthful in life. One must keep minds open to everything. learn everything but react only to few, be careful of choices and actions it will cause. One must learn to be human again.

One way to practice this in daily life is by:

Journal writing and reflecting back on facts, emotions, dreams, food season and intake, climate, seasons, planetary movements, world events, local events, and tasks done.

Taking breaks during the day to reflect.

Taking peaceful time in the morning to observe.

Taking time at night before sleep to reflect.

Consider yourself a wonder, explorer, researcher, visionary, designer, builder, student of life, etc.

We must learn to live:

To discover truth, preserve it and share it.

For future generation

To understand self

To understand nature

To understand our relation with nature and space

To develop technologies based on natural principal

To use technologies to help humans and nature unite

To use technologies to expand our sense organs and horizons

To unite among humans and grow healthy, wise, strong, smart, creative, abundant, etc

Every life, every moment, every environment, every climate, every day, every person, every place, every second is different, and they produce different results and outcomes. So humans, every individual, have their own life, body, mind, and spirit, which creates their own unique life and bond with nature and cosmos. One must find one's own truth and reality to live with the above mentioned discipline.

"Someone eating food won't fill your stomach and hunger."

Keep this in mind, here and series, I am not here to give answers and guide you to the ultimate answers, my goal is to make you see multiple things and from angles. My goal is to make you curious. My goal is to show you away. Help you show a path where you have to see yourself. You have to discover everything yourself.

Understanding Human Brain Puzzle

Let's try to understand humans first in a simple form.

We have a physical body, mental body and an emotional body or spiritual body.

To think, we have sense organs, 5 to feel, see the whole world. information comes to us through them. Those pieces of information are sent to our brain and our brain stores them, processes them, analyzes them, compares them with past experiences if we have any and predicts the future and reacts to them.

It compares any information as like or dislike. want or not want. need or not need. past or future. and decides whether to store them, process them and interact or leave them. It's quite simple to be honest.

Our brain seems to be a processing unit. At the same time our physical body, cells seem to remember our movements, strengths, our past evolution information as DNA and proteins too. It seems our whole body is alive. The more information we get from our sense organs, the more we seem to have many perspectives and the more we seem to know, our intellect grows like that. Our knowledge grows like that. Our brain and body are like a big multi dimensional puzzle, one piece connected with multiple pieces in the whole of what we know, always growing, changing, connecting with more pieces.

But there is a limitation to how much our sense organs can do. dogs can smell better than us, bees can see more colours than us, cheetahs can run faster than us, apes are stronger than us, and also among humans itself, some are taller, some are small, some can see more, some see less, some can smell better, some can not, some can hear more, some can hear less. Why is this the case? Why are we not training our sense organs? Why is no one talking about it? Why are parents not taught about it? Why are schools not teaching this? Is it not the first thing a human should learn about and start training to observe them, understand them, train them, exercise them, to get more information processing abilities as smart humans? I am sure we can do it. We study to increase knowledge, we exercise to build the body, sure we can make strong sense organs too to increase its limitations and ranges. Why are we not learning to feed more information to our brain?

Like I said, the brain is a multi dimensional puzzle, the more information we send to it through our sense organs, the bigger it will be. But in this era, we have started to feel it is less potent information. We have built a system of favourism and hate. We have favourite things, flower, colour, smell, food, music, artist, celebrity, etc. we have favourite ideas, politicians, religions, etc. can you imagine how harmful it is for individuals as well as the whole world? We are not allowing ourselves to learn from what we hate sticking to just what we love. Do you know what it does to your brain? Let me tell you, you will never complete this puzzle game inside your brain. You will just fill your favourite puzzles and live with it with all missing pieces from life. Life is rich, black, gray and white, pain, sorrow and bliss, joy and happiness, love and hate, left and right. so, to fulfill your puzzle in the brain, we must learn to accept things we like and dislike too. We must allow our brain and body to experience learning. Even if you don't like some political ideas, go and study yourself first, if you don't like some religion, go and study those religions first. If you don't like some food, try again first. Every moment, time, place, environment are different. It gives different experiences to everything even when you are doing the same thing. If you don't like some music today, you will start liking tomorrow if you let yourself try it. So explore, train your senses, understand them, protect them and let your brain and body feed more experiences and life at least till you are 25 years old. Be wild, crazy, kind, loving, hateful, leader, follower. live with multiple communities, countries, situations. be poor, be rich, everything. work and learn multiple hobbies and skills. but do not stick to one thing for more than 1 year, no lover, no friends, no community, no place, no artist, no idea, no political party, no religion, no country. change, grow, evolve.

Few Things To Keep In Mind?

So how to start the course of becoming hunatian, where to go, whom to speak and ask to, which books to read? Maybe you have these questions. So, let me make this clear, this journey to become hunatian does not require anything like these. You need nothing. All you need is your naked body and a will, commitment and declaration to work on yourself and change and grow and evolve in these 3 months.

Every task is meant to be read once in 3 days.

It starts with reflection, response, descriptions, ideas, etc. It will be followed by a task next.

After reading that task, they are supposed to do self reflection, observation in a real life environment, around their own life, family, community and find and see patterns of what that task is saying and teaching. They are supposed to analyse, research, fact check on their own, further clarification. Based on findings, prepare to make changes.

The next day is to read reflection about ideas, reasons, and explanations behind that task, which I have explained in detail in every section. And again on the 1st day they have to analyse them, fact check them, self reflect and all.

3rd day they are supposed to start making changes. Write journals, thoughts, findings etc. because this journal will come in use if wishing to join Hunate Project.

Rule 1: Use What You Already Have

With nothing, just as you were born, naked, and using whatever you have at the moment, you have to purify yourself, you have to understand yourself, you will be exploring inside, outside, and everything just like that.

You won't be needing and investing in any:

Fancy equipments,

Fancy dress,

Fancy medicines, etc

You might end up throwing more of these.

Along the journey, you will get some tasks and assignments and challenges to do like research and everything, so in a given time you have to complete them. So you have to do it. Like I said, no one is coming and doing things for you. You have to do it by yourself. So be ready for that. You will need some books or the internet to research for sure in a few cases or else use your imagination and creativity, ethics, moral and common sense.

There are rules, targets, discords to listen to, there are challenges, etc.

Rule 2: Make a Note: Write.

And take notes. Just don't take it as a scrolling thing. Watching and leaving or trying to keep in your head and pretend like you will start doing this from tomorrow is crap. Better start now.

Make a new journal, personal note to track your progress, feelings, emotions, changes, mild scones, self reflections and all. Be a little serious about it. Writing has power for the human brain. Take you time if needed. Be active, absorb well with full concentration and focus. It's your life, no one is coming to save you and praise you and motivate you. Think about it for yourself.

You can write twice too, in the morning and evening. you can record:

Emotions (reflections, gratitude, unpleasantness, happiness, laughs, cry)

Facts (food, time, season, moon cycle, people met, places, climate, etc)

Ideas (new ideas, designs, lessons, plans, goals, targets, compositions)

Dream (write about dream like you write of day time)

]progress, milestones, etc to do list

Imaginations, dreams, etc

You can also write in multiple languages alternating days.

You can also try writing with both hands alternating days.

You can sketch, draw some thoughts too, practice putting thoughts to pictures in note.

If you ever wish to join the Hunate Project as Engineers, or Resident in Hunate HQ, You will need to show this to apply.

Rule 3: Do Not Use Timer

Do not use your clock or timer or stop watch, use your intuition throughout the journey. Watch the time if you want to before you begin only. then keep it away where you cant see.

Practice your activities till you feel it's enough for you that day, decide to end, commit and then pack up, close and consider it done for the day.

Then go and watch your time. and see how long you did today. and keep a record of it too.

This will develop a sense of your own nature's time and limitations. you will start noticing that you change as seasons change, you change as food you eat, you change as the moon cycle, you change as clothes you wear, etc. it is very important in this learning phase. Please don't depend on this time, watch and stop watching.

This will also develop confidence, peace, and intuition in you. Erasing panic, rush, rat race game, dead line, etc. will help you rewire your thoughts from what this mainstream world has made you to be on time, follow schedules, be productive etc. this will connect you with yourself and natural flow, law and regulations.

Rule 4: Always Question: Don't be a Blind Follower.

In every step of this journey, there must come multiple questions. Actually not just in this journey, as humans, there you should always have questions. our ancestors use to understand how knowledgeable a person is through a level of questions he/she would ask.

Don't just be blind follower too. Analyse everything I say, critique, question it, find solutions, answers too, use your whole body, mind and soul. Don't just be like Ok, Ok to everything I say. Be open too.

This is a big problem of this world now, because of mass social media, news, scrolling, we are constantly shown many ideas, more than our mind can process. We are addicted to this scrolling. We are losing our ability to research and work on long term research goals. and we are getting easier to control and manipulate.

So we need to relearn to use our time, brain to fact check things we see on social media. We need to learn to spend hours diving deep into one topic rather than scrolling 1000s of topics in 1 hour and understanding nothing at last. We don't even remember what we watched later. What is this? this is not good.

Rule 5: Do It For Yourself: Alone.

Most important thing, don't practice this with a group. Don't call your friends and family, form a group, no one has to know, no one has to care. You have to do it alone, this is not something to do with a group. You don't have to say anything to anyone. Nobody cares and gives a shit, be aware of that, be ready to be your own friend, guide, teacher and prepare yourself. Be ready to speak with yourself. You have to find yourself alone, you have to find your own truth alone, you have to discover your bond with this world alone, nature and cosmos alone. At least till you complete this journey, maybe 3 months.

Keep it to yourself. For whatever reasons you are here, no one cares. Nobody gives a fuck. Whatever happens, keep it to yourself. Use it to fuel the fire inside you. Because, you are trying to find yourself, discover yourself. Unfold yourself. You are trying to find your own truth based on your own experiences. You are trying to find your bond with nature and cosmos, you, your senses, your experiences, perspectives, pasts, actions and choices, they are all yours and no one can decode and understand it. It's all you. So you have been alone to be honest and now you have to walk this path alone to understand them and decode them and see clearly. Before completing this basic version of this journey to be hunatian, keep it to yourself, don't share with anyone. This will teach to work for self, in silence too. Have self dignity, respect, improvement without someone's approval and influence and intervention. see, you have to understand that there are things needed to be done alone in life, there are things to do with family, there are things to do with friends, things to do with lovers and all, find their place and learn to work in every context, specially with self. This is the most important thing for humans to grow.

And also work and walk this path like nothing big is happening. Take it like a normal, casual day. Nothing fancy or nothing special and you are turning into a powerful human and don't carry the fruit inside your mind before you finish. Fruits come in different shapes and sizes as the journey goes on, it's all based on your journey to focus on the journey not fruit. Take it easy. You are just learning and working to be a better human as everyone has to actually do till we live as humans, simple.

Rule 6: Acceptance: Even Failing You.

And if at some point you are unable to do them, if you fail to complete some tasks, follow the routine, go to the mirror, and speak to yourself, tell yourself that you are not qualified to move on. But don't start to hate yourself, judge and criticize and shame yourself, don't start a blame and shame game. Don't make excuses and reasons too. And specially don't start to blame and put it out on someone else like parents, friends, environment, responsibilities or whatever. Don't start saying because of them, him, her or whatever. Simply accept it, tell yourself it's ok. I couldn't do it. I am not qualified to move on. So I will try again. And start again from the 1st task and count it as 1st day again. It will be challenging. Learn to accept even in times that you fail.

That's all, not so many rules and regulations actually. Simple

Rule 7: Share When You Are Finished.

Then, once you are done with the journey and think you gained and learned a lot. And I think some of your friends and family can learn too from it, start sharing, talking about it, recommending it to others and all.

Rule 8: Connect and Question Me.

If you want to talk about it more on the journey, if some question arises, and all, feel free to connect and write to me, I will be more than happy to assist you throughout the journey.

See, I am just another human, so if you are scared of another human, it wont work. You have to speak up.

1st Task, Find Your Space

Welcome to the journey

So, let's start with the 1st task. We are trying to discover ourselves, isn't it?

Saying From Past

Build a place to build yourself from inside out. build one place and conquer it, run it with discipline, rules, regulations and purpose.

There are 3 lives of humans they say in old sayings, one for self, one for family and friends and one for strangers. Here we will just focus on one- self life in the beginning phases, because you will only know others if you know yourself first.

Reflective Question

Now please spend some time reflecting on self, try to know what we are at this moment in life. Our thoughts, imaginations, action and choices when we are alone. Let's recall, what do you do when you are alone? By choice or by circumstances, if you have to be alone, what do you do? What do you choose to do? What do you think of it? past or present or future? good or bad, positive or negative thoughts? forgiving or rebellious thoughts?

Where do you go? To your house? to nature? to the park? Where? to friends? to movies? to phone? to work? What is your choice and action these days?

What do you do? distract yourself with phone and work? read? write? sleep? drink? watch porn? watch movies? be productive for the future or waste time being destructive to self?

Please find your answers and write it down in your note/journal as self observation and reflection.

Task Explanation

Lets build a place now for ourselves, our temple, our work place for growth, somewhere no one knows.

Do you have such a place, your zone some call it. Where no one can interfere, no one disturbs you, distracts you, do you have such a place?

If you don't have such a place, then let's build this place. We have forgotten this important thing as humans. We all need a place where we can be alone, absolute alone, no distractions, no people to interact with, no phones, books, nothing, no music, no pc, no internet, no hobby, etc, just you alone as you came to this world. In ancient times, people used to use this place for reflection, healing, learning, growth, self exploration and all. Let's bring it back to the present from the past.

At home, in one corner, in the garage, here there, anywhere, or in nature, near river, pond, jungle any where you feel good to be, but a quiet place, clean and fresh place, where you feel comfortable, calm and at peace, where no one disturbs you, where no one calls you, for at least an hour in the morning and evening.

We have one day for this exercise.

Even sound must not disturb you, choose a place where minimal sound comes to you while staying there. And if that's not possible, let it be, we will learn to ignore sounds slowly. We will slowly learn to focus on self and inside ourselves slowly. Still try your best to find such a place.

This will be the 1st task to do.

Demonstration

(this is where i show example of space in my room, standing and moving around my stretched arms, so it wont touch anything)

This space for example, nothing is there, just enough space for me to move my arms freely. We have to be able to move freely. And while you sit too comfortably. And moving hands and legs, it must not touch anything around. Simple. Keep one mat on the ground for you to sit.

Please don't use plastic things. All we need is this space, maybe 7 by 7 foot space or little more.

Quite silent. Clean. Peaceful place. Simple.

No distractions, nothing.

No equipment too.

No book, no copy, nothing. No pencil, no mobile.

Just you alone and space.

Task Explanation

In this place, we will be doing everything we will be doing in the coming days.

If you are thinking,

Why do we need to create this space?

Consider this, we humans need tools to extend our limitations on our sense organs. We have machines to make us faster, we have books to expand our knowledge, we have clothes to survive extreme climates, like wise, this place will act as a tool that will help you understand yourself and will help you discover your bond with nature. Make this place with a clear purpose, different place, and declare that this place is just for this journey. Make it your holy place, temple and space of growth.

Make sure it does not fall where people keep passing and disturbing you. Make sure it's peaceful, quiet, clean, and nice. Consider this as your temple for the coming days.

You are not here to relax and be lazy. Don't use this place for lying down at other times, don't use it for sleeping, eating, or any other activities. You should feel like, ok this is it. Let's respect this place, its value and purpose.

You might think can we do it in our own bed?

Please don't do it in bed. A bed has its purpose and that is to sleep, relax and make love. Make sure you are not practicing any thing we learn on the bed sofa, lying down in comfort and chilling behaviour with others around.

When you finish choosing and making this space, you should feel at ease and at peace, some positive feelings have to come. You should feel a purpose, dedication and wish to accomplish some task here.

In between if you have to change this place, please do so but, please, try your best so you don't have to keep changing places. Declare it and stick to your decisions. It teaches discipline and commitment too. Stick to your choices.

Simpel.

This is all for now.

Call For Action

If you have questions, please ask me directly. Email, comment, here there other social platforms, anywhere.

2nd Task: Sit Still

I hope you have created your zone well.

Saying From Past

What will a person learn, if he/she doesn't know how to learn by themselves? What will a person understand, if he/she don't understand himself? how will a person connect with the world if he/she is not connected with self?

Task Explanations

Today we will go to our holy place we have built and just sit.

Wake up early in the morning before the sun rises. Drink some water, go to the bathroom and all, maybe have a shower too in these first days, if possible without talking with any one or seeing any one. make it a first thing to do before interacting with the world outside. This is important.

Now go to your zone and sit like this on the floor on the mat. yourself and comfortable, clean clothes. Here, without any things. Without doing anything. Just sit there. Simple,

You can close your eyes or open them, try both ways. It's good to sharpen your senses with closed eyes though.

Don't see anything, don't hear anything, don't smell anything, be natural, or do whatever you want, but for 30 minutes, stay there in your zone.

Here you will absorb yourself as you are observing someone else from the corner of the room, you will observe what thoughts are coming into your mind. How easy or uneasy are you feeling?

You might start planning, you might start thinking of this thing, those things,

You might think of yesterday, the past may be, you might start to think of present days and moments, you might start thinking of future days. Many crazy thoughts might start to come. you might start thinking of dreams, friends, family members.

Thoughts might come to escape from that place. thoughts might come thinking what you are doing there, what to do next, how long to stay like that, what will happen, is it even good, is it even worth doing this. you might feel like giving up. you might feel angry, you might feel sad, you might feel happy.

You might start driving your thoughts as you like and where you usually go when you are bored, you might think of sex, movies, power, fantasies, lovers, drinks.

You might think of some bad deeds someone did to you, you might think of good deeds, you might think of taking revenge or forgiving someone.

Thousands of thoughts may come for some, and some may just drive one thought and start playing a movie inside mind to kill time. Some days may have a different number of thoughts, some may be different.

Some may reach in blank, some may fall asleep.

Just let it be. Let it come and go. Just observe them, that's your task. Absorb your thoughts. Just think of things that are coming to your mind and thoughts, absorb them carefully. Simple. there is no right or wrong way we are talking about there.

After around 30 minutes, write down your findings. What did you notice in your thoughts? where does it go too much? What was it thinking too much about? Were you letting go and jumping to the next thought or driving it and stretching them? How did you feel? Did you like it or hate it? Did you ignore some thoughts and show likings to some thoughts? what was your favourite thing to think of and what was not? did 1000s come to mind or just few 100s? things like this.

See, it's easy to trace our mind if we simplify it.

Our mind moves to the past, present or future.

And again among them it will think positive or negative.

And imaginative or realistic. simple.

No one will teach you this. Think for yourself. You will see that our brain is in a constant loop around these places.

Write it down and analyse them carefully. and start asking why you were thinking like that too. look into past. look into what future you want to build and decide to change some thinking patterns too. all the best of your hard work.

More of it throughout the day for now on, you can recall and try to write your past memories too. like:

1st memory.

1st memory of different emotions (happiness, pain, betrayal, love, happiness, joy, sadness, anger, frustration, sacrifice, detachment, etc)

1st memory of parents

1st memory of friends

Etc

Also divide stories as what you experience yourself and what others told you as it happened. also write of your parents stories and their struggles and all.

Write it down and try to spend time healing from them. find your strength and weakness. try to convert those memories into your strength and story of your life. be your own healer. be your own star from your life movie.

Q&A

As I have said in the opening guidance too, please do not use a timer. use intuitions.

Call For Action

We will be back after 3 days. Carry on the journey. And we will come up with a new task to add after three days.

If you have questions regarding all these, please feel free to reach out, and ask. Stay tuned too. Message, comment, dm us, emails, just ask.

3rd Task: Focus on Breath

Welcome back to the journey. I hope you spend these 3 days watching over your thoughts. I hope you have started to see the pattern.

Revision

First of all let's talk about the 2nd task, sitting quietly for 3 days in your space for 30 minutes. You must have realized after 3 days, that, whatever you did and thought, it's your true self at this present moment. How many thoughts came and went, how jumpy your thoughts are, how stable they are, how controlling you are, how peaceful you are, how agitated you are, how stable you are.

Whatever you did, whatever happened, some might have assumed I was trying to tell you to meditate and started meditating, but, whatever you did, that's you. I didn't mean to tell you to meditate by the way. That was not a point. Still if you did it, it's fine. Be your own judge, teacher, guide, motivator and inspiration. accept that it's who you are right now, there is no wrong or right here. Just know who you are and feel ok about it and make a mind to change it into a better version of your mind and thoughts.

Saying From Past

Moving to the 3rd task. We will learn slowly to focus our thoughts, direct our mind and concentration to one thing for a long time.

Think for yourself, If you can not focus your mind and thoughts on one thing for a long time, as you want it to, how will you focus on life? What will you create, build, learn, and grow? If you don't have control over your thoughts, how will you control your life? The mind makes us see the world, mind makes us make decisions, so why not teach it to control self.

Thoughts

So we will start purifying our mind from today. Lets think, when we were born, what did we come with? You didn't come with any specific ideas, philosophies, religion, thoughts, etc. you were an empty puzzle, empty paper. You didn't know what this world was made of. You didn't know what was right and what was wrong.

Slowly, people who were around started teaching you, putting things they know from where they were growing up and living. Parents started teaching what they know, then the community started teaching things they know, and then teachers started teaching what they were forced to teach and what they know. Slowly they started shaping how you should think and act too. And that's how you are today.

Look at a new child around you, how pure they are. they can be molded into anything right? they become what we teach them. We can make them criminals and we can make them healers too, it depends on society.

So depending on the place, family, culture and school you go to, you become you today. It's simple. you are what grown ups created you. you are not what you wanted to be. In this case, your purpose, dreams, visions, goals, may be fake too. think about it. your favourite food, music, idols, religion may be fake too, influenced by society and mass media. Your choice of clothes, style, and art can be a product of mass advertising campaigns. This failing man made social system does not allow any one to have time to stop from life, think, reflect, question, seek truth, work on self, and change. One must realize this soon.

We are constantly influenced by the environment around us, we all know that, for example by phone, other people, food we eat, seasons, plants, or even with our own visions, desires and goals, many be by past experiences or traumas, we are constantly manipulated and controlled by many factors.

Now, we need to detox our mind and thoughts. Forget everything taught by this failing system and write our new purpose. Toxic, influences, manipulations, different preset threads, purposes, goals, different attachments, dogmas, addictions, whatever you call, we will try to get rid of everything we have and try to build it from inside out.

Task Explanation

What we will do is, learn to understand our life and control it as we want it. I meant not to control control, not trying to cage it into a box and prison, but we will learn consciously, to observe our thoughts and put it in a place where we want it to be.

So, where do we put our mind?

Now, let's go to a time when you were being born and think back, what did you actually come with in this world? Your body (physical, mental and spiritual) and something very precious, Breath, which connected you to this air, life and world, that is why they check for your breaths as you come out, hanging you upside down. It's very powerful. Close your breathing for some time and you will realize how important it is. If you are just disconnected from it for 2 minutes, we will collapse and go unconscious and may die too.

Sure some who are trained can stop them for 30 + minutes, but they are expectations and they too will collapse. All I am saying is this is something very holy, powerful, essential, thing in life then any thing given in the time frame. We can survive without many other elements for weeks and weeks but without breath, we are done for. That's how important it is.

So we will use this tool, breath, to rewrite yourself, from inside out, brain pattern, thoughts pattern, DNA, molecules, whatever. Everything, we can do it with our breath.

So from today on words, through the course, we will start focusing our mind, thoughts, and concentration into breath.

No counting numbers, no visualizations techniques, no image of gods or signs, no idols, don't focus here and there as they say in meditation techniques, jumping here and there, do nothing. These all are propagandas and written by someone else. Don't trust in any teachings for now till you discover yourself. just trust what you came with, your own part, Just on your breath, just where breath comes and goes out of your, you nostrils holes.

And don't control your breathing rhythm, just focus on normal breaths as you have at the moment. If thoughts start to appear and distract you from the past, or future, just realize it and come back to your breath again, just accept it and pull your focus back to breath. Simple. It will be a challenge between your conscious mind to focus on breath, nose holes and your subconscious thought patterns. I hope you win it and master it.

So, yes this for 30 min, you will be doing it for a whole journey. And carry this to life too, you will know how it changes you. All i can say is best of your hard work and welcome to the reality.

The change does not come overnight, that is how nature works, have a look around, you never see trees growing overnight, sun doesn't move across sky in ways you notice them, moon cycles can't be noticed too, until and unless you keep observing them over time, in patience and dedication and discipline.

You can keep practicing this while you are waiting, on the bus, in your free time, through the day. Instead of using your phone and scrolling to kill time, practice this to maintain your thoughts. This is an art of staying put. at present.

Call For Action

So this is the 3rd task. in the next task as the 4th task, we will start detoxing our physical body.

So stay tuned, share comments, ask questions you have, speak up.

Stay strong, keep changing, keep evolving as always.

4th Task. Think About the Body.

Welcome to the 4th task of the journey to be hunatian.

So if you are new to this journey, please start from the beginning.

If you are already on your journey, welcome back again, I hope everything is going well.

I hope you are in your space/zone, if not, please...., today, the 4th task, we are about to start.

Revision.

First let's talk a little about 3rts tasks. Focusing on breathing simply.

When breathing in and out, did you start to feel subtle changes in temperature also around the nostrils, just feel them. That's it. When you breathe in, the air feels cooler, and when you breathe out, it feels a little warm. And because of that, there is always a subtle sensation around nose holes, which we all don't know and feel in daily life. Like these sensations, our whole body always has these sensations. Simple.

I know frustration arises when not being able to concentrate and keep focus on for a long time. Especially on something very boring, what most of them think. And if we are able to concentrate, we become happy, and from tomorrow, we start to desire that concentration and happiness and feeling of success, we start craving them, this is a paradox, or a trick of life here.

On other hand we start to hate those days where we can not focus and are frustrated and start running away and avoiding those days, events and feelings. It's like this, the more you want the same feeling and you don't get it, the more agitated and frustrated you will feel, that's the simple way to understand it.

We want to be able to concentrate and focus on breath, but the feeling that we start to attach ourselves with it is dangerous, that attachment we start building with our experiences is dangerous.

No matter what happens, what experiences we had, we have to learn to see it as it is, it is a reality, its truth, it's not wrong, not right, it is what it is, this is what we have to try to master. We have to understand that every day is different. And we have to learn to be observers and accept things as they are rather than attaching them to any feelings.

Life and nature are not the same every moment, it changes. We have to see that and adopt and accept them and change with them. That's the way.

Some days you can concentrate, some days you can not. Sometimes you have 1000s of thoughts, sometimes you have one, sometimes you want, sometimes you want nothing. The more you accept as an observer, the more at peace and more you can see a bigger and clearer picture in life. Just be present and observe what is happening today, it does not matter if yesterday you were able to focus more, or if tomorrow you will be able to focus more. Nothing matters. Now matters for now. Our task is to understand what our state of mind, body and soul is at the moment and depending on them, plant the day further. Simple. And you can do this by pushing yourself to focus on breath.

Reflective Question

Now, moving on to the 4th task, be sited in your space, finish focusing on breathing, task 3 and prepare to start the 4th task.

We will start thinking about our physical body.

Let's think and reflect, what is this body? Why is it here? What is its purpose? What is it made of? What is the connection between mind, and soul? how is it connected with nature? How many ways can we use it? How do we train it? What is its capacity? Why can my mind travel faster and longer distances while this body can not and has limited capacities compared to mind and thoughts?

See, if you don't understand your body, how will you use it, maintain it, train it?

Have you ever thought about it? I am sure you have seen many people using their body to the fullest of their ability. How do you feel seeing them?

It's a very smart and powerful tool we have. Same like plants and machines, more care we do, more maintenance we do, better it functions. Simple.

But we neglect that, we forget it, we are lazy for it. We abuse it, we poison it, and our whole failing social system is built to destroy it. Actually we never think about our body consciously, we don't have time to think and feel for it. We don't have the habit of consciously thinking of every part of the body and being grateful for it.

Using Both Parts

Something we have never thought about is, from our birth, we are not taught to use both parts of our body equally, why do you think so? Why do we have dominant hands and legs? Could we have not been taught to master the use of both parts of our body and mind? At home? At school? Life? Why is it not like that? Where did we go wrong? Why did we miss it? What are we not using it for? Why is it not in the system? Imagine what we could have been? Why are we not training it? Some people do it, especially those who are into special types of sports, dance, jemestic, football, basketball and so on. But most of the normal people don't even think it's possible, far fetched is the idea of training it. But understand this, you will be * 10 of what you are if you really train both parts of your body.

Simple exercises can be learning to write with both hands, cooking, cleaning, brushing, playing, painting, anything. It will also help maintain body symmetry and proportions. We have seen some people walking twisted, some having more muscles on one hand, some dipropionate face and body, it's all the result of using one part of the body constantly. So try using both. Think about it.

Body As Instrument

Like any other things, like cars, computers, plants, machines, this, our body also has a way to operate and function, it has its own law and system and function and limitations. And are we aware of these things, limitations, law, system, and all of our own body? Are we using them accordingly? This is also our vehicle and our temple. It carries our mind and soul. This is also our home. Have you thought about it? Do you respect it? Do you value it? have you ever thought to give time to maintain it? understand it? train it?

It's an instrument, it's a guitar, how well are you playing it?

It's A care, how well are you maintaining it? How well are you driving it?

It's like a computer, how fast and smooth are you running it?

If you don't like some part of body, do you want to change

If something can not be changed, are you ready to accept it? How will you learn to accept it? How will you present it to the world and keep building confidence and expressions? How are you expressing yourself, how are you carrying your body? How are you presenting it to the world? It's all about your body. Think about it.

Changing Body

Think about it. Reflect back to your own body, are there any things you don't like, are both parts of your body symmetrical, and function well? Are feet fine, are hands fine, are fingers fine, are face proportion ok? If you don't like it, make a decision to change it. Make a commitment. With the right effort, dedication, exercises, disciplines, we as humans have the ability to change them to desired outcome and if using tools, we can change more.

Of course I am not talking about growing wings but hope you will understand. There is nothing we can not change, height is something it's hard to manipulate naturally but we can now with the right tools too. Still without using any tools and equipment, most of the things in our body can be trained and changed. We have to consciously put an effort into it. There are ways to change strength, health, flexibility, proportions and everything about our body.

So for now, we will just think about it, what do you want to change, do you like your body, is there a way to change your body, do you wish to invest time and energy to change your body. Just honk and reflect. Do you have time to change it?

Body As Per Food

Have you ever thought that your body changes depending on the place you are living in, seasons, food you are taking, colours you are wearing, chemicals you are using?

Six Sense

We never think of our six physical sense organs, we never think of the importance of polishing them and training them and keeping them maintained.

These are our doors to the universe, depending on its health and capacity we see and perceive the world, we never think, some see more colours, some see less, some have a higher spectrum of visions, smell, sound, etc, some have less, why? Because some take care of them, some don't. Simple.

We have to start thinking about them and start taking care of them like any other machines.

Body As Per Exercise

There are many types of exercises, yoga, sports, dance, weight lifting, mma, jumba, swimming, etc. There are so many different ways but what do you want your body to be? What do you want? Speed? Muscles? Stringent? Flexibility? Mobility? Longevity? Adaptability? Immunity? What do you want?

Body As Per Karma/Duty

What is your karma, work and day to day life looks like? And what type of body will you need for your work? Are you sitting at a computer all day as your work in life? Are you a farmer or any job demanding physical strength? Do you use so much brain and mental work? Do you use hands or fingers? Do you use legs? Do you use speed? Flexibility? How well do you understand your life, work and your body? do you eat accordingly? Are you even doing it or just eating whatever you find regardless of type of your body and work and life you have or want to have?

Body As Per Future Vision

Do you even have a vision or a goal? What do you want to be? Farmer? IT guy? Politicians? Priest? Engineer? Pornstar? Musician? What do you have on your mind?

If you are thoughtful about it, you will find it easier to select lifestyle, food, and exercises and routines accordingly. I feel sad we are not taught these things at school.

Task Explanation

So today, what we will start doing is, we will in our space/zone, come and sit. We already have a 30 min task to do with focusing on breathing. With it we are purifying our mind. Now another. In 30 minutes, we will start thinking about ourselves. How will we polish our body? How will we make it better? How will we care for it? How do we nourish it"? How will we detox it? How do we clean it, keep it healthy? How will we make it strong, flexible, fast, versatile? How will we increase its immunity and pain tolerance levels? We will just think about it.

Write it down on your note, journal. in detail. use your brain. analyse your life pattern and how you are dealing with your body.

Just think and sit. What have we done to our body so far? How are you looking after it? Is it just flowing?

Who cares, let it be, just wake up, go to work, feed whatever you get, sleep wherever, sit wherever however, just bathe in the name of cleanliness, is it just happening or are you consciously taking care of it? Think about it.

Think about your body for the coming days, just don't do any exercise and all for now, you can explore if you want too. To see if you can use both parts of the body well. Are every part functioning for normal day to day tasks like, jumping, running, walking, climbing, lifting weights, squirting, stretching, flexibilities, etc to identify your present situation.

Make a decision to take care of it, understand it, sharpen and exercise it, make it strong, worship it, love it, nurture it, feed it healthy, it will serve us back, there is no doubt about that and we have to understand it. The more time you give for its betterment, the better and better it gets. It is also a memory that it stores from generations, evolutions and passes it on to the next generation.

Think about it throughout the day, when you eat, when you walk, when you sit, when you rest, think about what that action will do to your body.

From the next task I will guide you all to start from roots, starting from detoxing. Purifying it, slowly developing it, changing it, for now just reflect.

Call For Action

As always keep changing, keep evolving.

Best of your hard work.

Stay tuned, comment, ask questions you have, speak up.

Stay strong, keep changing, keep evolving as always.

5th Task. Simple Exercises

Welcome to 5th task to be hunatian. As always, if you are new, please go back to the earlier tasks and start from the first task and come slowly. Those who have been following, let's begin.

Revision

How are your days going? I hope you are able to think of your tasks throughout the day. I hope you are questioning more, you are curious, and you are starting to look for answers here and there throughout the day. I hope you are starting to see what we are talking about in other people around you too.

Reflective Question

So from the previous task, what did you think? Any exercises you want to follow? Any food routine? Any lifestyle? Any future plans?

Every decision has its own path to follow and routines to follow. There are thousands of foods, lifestyle, environments, future goals, and exercises to follow. and i can not teach them all right now. But no matter who you are, where you are, and what you want to be, we are still humans and there is a way we all can be in our roots. So here I will teach you a few basic ways any person can follow simple exercise for life. later you can modify them as you wish as you start understanding more of the body and life.

Task Explanation

Now, talking about the 5th task, today, sitting in our zone, without any equipment, we will try to understand how we can understand our body and how we can make a routine of simple exercises.

If you recall, when we wake up, we still feel a little tired, lazy, slow, and sleepy. It's because of chemicals and hormones that our body produces at night while we sleep, something that paralyzes our body and sleep. And many healing enzymes and chemicals our body produces in sleep. And some simple practices, exercises and movements and posture helps our body to flush out those chemicals, lubricate our joints, stretch our muscles and prepare our body for the day's activities. It will just take 30 minutes and we will be very active and fresh. some habits which helps are:

Waking up before sun rise

Drinking fresh water kept on copper jar in winter and mud pot in summer

Self massaging

Joint movements, stretching, exercise

Going to toilet

Bathing

Meditating, etc

For now, we will focus on our physical exercises. We will learn how to prepare our body for daily work and rush. It's a very simple thing and a common sense of how the body functions and we should take care of these things. Just doing this is very powerful and everybody must actually do things regardless of what profession, what body type you have and what food habits you have.

So here we will learn some Basic joint movements to lubricate our joints,

Stretching to activate our muscles and increase flexibility,
And simple muscle strength training,
Simple basics yet very powerful. You can do this much to remain healthy throughout life.

So first start with joints.

Moving on to exercise. Let me tell you this most important and most basic thing.

Keep your stomach empty, of course you won't eat early in the morning but still just to be sure I am sharing this. and when you have drunk water after waking up, wait for around 30 minutes, you can do some massage, go to the toilet while waiting. and start by coming to your zone.

You can do this task before you focus on your breath, let's call it concentration meditation. or you can do it after too. try both ways, and do what best feels good for you.

For any exercise you do, always keep this in mind that you either start from head towards toes or from toes towards head. Always. It will be easy to follow when you do it and you can focus your concentration of muscles and how you are feeling more than taking track of time and process and counting and where you are going next. It matters a lot. The goal is to feel and understand the body, not the process and statistics.

Another is to always breathe from your nose no matter what, even if you are feeling like running out of breath. Remember this, mouth and stomach are for eating, nose and lungs are for breathing. keep it simple for now. and when you are bending forward and squeezing your body into small, exhale. When you are stretching and expanding your body, in hale. simple like how lungs would do. keep it simple

Demonstration

(this is where i am sitting on mat and showing how to start joining moment exercises)

So, let me show you how to start exercising and lubricating your joints. For this demonstration we will start from the toe. Now think, what is the first joint that comes? Fingers from legs right? So let's think how it's supposed to move and how. So let's move them, slowly, observing that they are moving fine from both legs. If their range of motions are similar, try pushing them a little more than normal stretching them. Imagine you are playing a movie in 1/2 speed, slow romantic scenes. That's what we should do with every exercise. The goal here is to not finish, watch time. The goal here is to feel your body, muscles, and note its range, health, mobility, strength, connections with other parts of the body. Start slowly, repeat, 2 to 3 times only, and stretch them for some time longer till you feel little pain. Remember never jerk it or force it too hard. Keep it peaceful and slow and chill. like a feather flowing down from a tree.

Simple and consciously. Always when you squeeze your muscles, breathe out and when you stretch, breathe in. Keep this in mind. This is not a type of exercise with fury, strength, rush, fire inside you. It's simple, your goal is to find your bond with breathing, mind, and body and soul. So focus here. You can do it slowly and just 3 times is enough for all joints in the body. Try to feel it. Close your eyes and feel too. Observe yourself. Reflect and connect with yourself. You have seen people doing amazing things with their body, remember them and question how you can relate with them. Try to figure out if something is wrong with your body, joints. Mark them, and make decisions to change them. It's very simple, remember which directions you can move your joints: left, right, up, down, sides, rotate, yes just do those with utmost concentration, observation and feeling and care and peace.

Now keep moving up, next joints, ankles, hips, thighs, etc. don't miss the joint move them all slowly one by one, feeling them.

(basically i am doing a demonstration of joints movement)

And remember you have to do this without anything, no books, no music, no incense, just you and a peaceful clean environment.

Stretch it. What else can you do? Some joints are stiff. Notice them. Think how humans around are using their body, on the internet or other places. Move everything and heal them solely. Just play with your body. And slowly add exercises from others.

Now once you have moved your neck and eyes rotations too.

Move to stretch your body again.

Again from head to toe or down words. Part by part, slow and smoothly. And feel which part of your body has frozen.

And once you have done it, move to strength exercises.

You don't have to have a guide or trainer. Just think about what work you do at home. What are movements you need to work at home, simple home tasks and train those muscles. Try training both parts of the body in proportion. Push yourself a little. You don't need to know anything. There are no right and wrong things. Just imagine how your body works. Simple pushups, squats, pullups, try. Use your own body. Explore it. Dance with your body. Explore and judge.

Simple.

You have people doing it many times. The challenge here is you, without the teacher discovering your own habits and routine. Trust me, someone teaching will never stay with you for a life, but you you discover your pattern, habit, style, way here, you will keep it for years and may be life, you will develop it, you will add and remove stapes, you will start to know patterns and you strength and types and everything. And that is my goal here for you. Teach you to plant a seed and take a first stroke and steps. Develop a mind to be designer, thinker, observer, researcher, and builder, be a visionary and planner. This is our course. I hope you make the most of it.

So, as days pass, see that your movements start improving. see strength and body proportions developing. notice small small changes. feel when your body is more loose, when they are more tight, when they feel heavy, when they feel hot, when they feel cool. recall what you had eaten or what you had done yesterday. Try to find connections with thoughts and actions you took the day before. Try to remember and connect with what emotions you had experienced before that day. They all are connected. Find your reality, find your patterns, find yourself. Let me tell you, we all are unique and different living in different realities in this manner. discover you please. all the best of your hard work.

This is it. 5th task.

But actually we have just learned 2 things so far, to sit and observe your breath and other things is to observe and play with your body.

Simple yes but this is challenging for many people. Because we have forgotten to listen to ourselves, observe ourselves, explore ourselves, understand ourselves and develop ourselves.

So from the next task, we will learn what to do throughout the day as well.

Call For Action

So thank you so much for your time and effort. It is for you. Seep changing and evolving. Like comment, share, and ask anything you want.

6th Task: Sense Organs: Tongue & Food

From today, we will take care of our physical sense organs individually as a task. As we know casually, we have 5 sense organs as doors to the world. eyes to see, tongue for taste, ears for sounds, nose for smell and skin for feeling temperature, etc. and there is one more called intuition, so i call, it is a combined form of all sense organs, hormonal glands, brain, memory, dreams, working together to predict, imagine, etc. we can call it instinct too.

In the coming days, we will watch over these topics and try to detox them, and keep them healthy.

There is a saying, "if you can not control your senses, what will you control what is outside?" and to do so, we must learn from them, understand them, explore them, think about them, clean them, protect them, train them. Don't let it control and rule over you, you control them and put them in places where you want them to be. be a master of your body and life.

Welcome to the 6th task to be hunatian.

Again if you are new, please start from the first task because you will be lost here. And won't understand anything. And if you are already on a journey, welcome back again.

So let's start with the 6th task, here we will start from Tongue, taste and food, which is one of the most important topics.

Saying From Past

Reflective Question

Have you ever thought if food matters of taste matter for humans?

Have you thought about how many taste buds there are? In our place, we have six, sweet, bitter, sour, pungent, astringent, salty. They all trigger specific body and mind parts. Here we are taught to eat according to

Our body type,

Our work/karma/daily task

Seasons/climate

And what we want to be in the future.

Have you ever thought the ones who are growing food and feeding the world are considered the poorest and lowest in social status?

Have you ever thought, despite there being land everywhere, why are food plants not planted everywhere? Why are fruit plants not planted everywhere on the whole earth and made food abundant? Could it solve the food hunger problem? Do you know who did this? When did it start? Who funded it?

Have you ever thought food could have been our ultimate medicine and fuel?

Have you ever thought about what happens to the brain, thoughts and body in hunger?

In World Around

So let's start by thinking again, recalling and reflecting again. There are thousands and thousands of tropes of diet plans now, many many cultures, countries, cousins, habits, foods, fruits. We can not say, we can not know, and we can not eat everything at once. It's very hard to understand what to eat, what not to eat, what is right and what is wrong, it's a very confusing world of food.

Some scientists and dieticians will say eat this, some will say, no, eat that. Sometimes we have even seen some promoting some food as good food and again changing narratives in another era or decade.

Propagandas

We have seen propagandas related to food. We have seen people polluting and trying to control seeds/food and modifying them to dominate the population and control hunger. There is also a saying "if you control hunger, you control people's mind". That has been a movement by powerful people, business and politicians too. It's a big business of pesticide, seed, agriculture, tools, equipment, countries and all. There are many things connected to it.

Everything is Different

So now, what we will do again is think, we will do a lot of reflections here, as you may have noticed how we do things here, more than think, i am saying, rethink, review, reevaluate, reflect on past experiences. This is a way to understand, redesign and move to designing a better future.

What is real food? What is nature providing for us to eat? What would we eat if there were no farming industries, agriculture, tools, machines, etc? What would nature provide without human intervention? And we will try to identify them, categorize them and start consuming them and studying their effect, personally. That is the challenge here now. Break it to its core to understand it.

Task Explanation

What we are going to do in this journey is, we will forget everything.

We will forget about diet plans that the world is trying to teach us, we will forget about dieticians, doctors, scientists, politicians and business. We will buy no one's truth and diet plans. Many be that worked for them but won't work for you, just think that. No matter if they are ancient knowledge or modern scientists from the modern world. Consider it does not work. Their teachings in books and internet and social media reels don't work on your body. There is no one ultimate guide for everyone.

We will consciously make a choice, make a decision and filter every harmful, toxic, unwanted food, which are harming us and put healthy food in our diet which will help us rebuild ourselves and health. Which will heal us, which is better for us. For our mind, body and soul.

We will consume what nature gives directly. Only consume what nature produces. It's quite simple to think about it actually. Life will be very easy too.

Grains, cereals,

Lentils, beans,

Nuts,

Fruits,

Vegetables,

Seeds,

Herbs and flowers, etc

And eggs, meat and dairy products too.

You can eat anything inside these categories, but direct hand only, not processed, packed, grinded or powdered in places you don't know, bottled, canned, nothing. just these from your local place.

About meat and all, eat according to your body type, work type and vision of the future you. if you want to enhance your brain, if you want to be spiritual, eat plant based food. if you want to work physically more, eat meat and all too. find what your body and your life wants. Don't follow social events, media influences and cultural traps. just know who you want to be, every choice either takes you towards your vision or the other way.

If these things are not available in your local place, leave that place. simple. What are you doing living there? earning money? in exchange for what? health? life? don't be stupid with your fake responsibilities and reasonings. grow up. you have a choice.

Filter Factory Products

What can that be? Filter them slowly from your diet. Filter every food produced in the factory and those packed in plastic and containers, strictly. Make up your mind, make a declaration. Make a decision, commitment. This is our first challenge here. And see how it works, feels. Filter packed, salt, sugar, oil, water, noodles, pastas, breads, everything. They have preservatives and we don't know what exactly they are inside them. Through the journey, we will consume these only. There are 100s of options for tea, oil, salt and food itself. We just have to put our mind to it. There are 10000s of options which are far better than factory products and chemicals which are blocking our thinking abilities, senses and perspectives in life. This is a reason we don't see a clear picture of the rat race we are in. like a frog don't feel water temperature rising till its dead.

Even if a mango comes as organic dried mango slices, filter them. discard them. just use real fresh mango. simple.

Think about what we have on the natural side, pink salt, sea salt, cold pressed oil, fruits, nuts, herbal tea and coffees, vegetables, grains, lentils, seeds. Consume these. Only these things. Simple.

And in cities, it's very expensive to get them all right? Yes, but after all, what are you living for? Why are you working hard? What money are you running for? Is it not for a quality of life, healthy food, travel, family time and freedom, comfort, healthy body? If you have not thought of this way? You are really lost, you don't know what you want money for! You struggle all your life for money and if you don't use it to buy quality of life! And that is a serious problem. So think hard and start investing money on things that matter, in return it will start opening your body and mind and you will end up achieving more in life.

Don't be greedy about investing in health, food, family and life itself. Rethink what you are living for. Once you join this journey, you will start to see that it's quite easy, and not too hard and expensive.

Make a decision and stick to it. It's all about mindset.

Food As Message

Let me share something interesting about food created by nature. see this is also another way to see, everything is connected. The past makes the present and the present makes the future. Nature, food, land, and humans are connected. Seasons are connected with food and nature. land is connected with food and humans living there.

Every seasons make different food, you know i assume. While seasons change, climate change, plants are so intelligent that they prepare food with information from the whole earth and changes that are happening, and will come in the near future. plants are very connected with each other through air, water, bacterias in soil and all. and in each food they prepare every season, they are preparing it with information from nature. It holds information, chemicals such to help us adapt to coming change, fight diseases, flues, etc. when we eat them, and its information is carried out to make us ready for change. We again throw seeds and what is left with what we extracted and what we didn't need, and again it goes back to nature to consume that information and adapt accordingly. Creating a circle. It so happened in many ways, waters, air, electric signals, bacterias, vibrations, and what thighs still to discover.

We have to see this connection too to fully understand ourselves as humans. then we can better see the world. This also proves that no one food diet is good for any individual throughout the year, even if it's natural. We have to change food as nature changes and seasons change to keep close to natural flow and diseases and adaptation

Food Mile

Also there is a term called "Food Mile". It basically means calculating and tracking where food is coming from. How far has it traveled to reach your plate? Where it was grown. How much energy, transport, economy, labor, etc took to reach your place. Put some effort into reducing them. Use local foods and support the local economy. Most of the time, this franchise and multinational companies are the reason people lose hope, nature, business, family business, local economy, faith, unity in community, government's power and strong leaders.

This also helps you understand nature and food from local places, its importance and necessity. For example if you are consuming food from Africa in Nepal, it won't do its best as we learned about how food carries messages from your local place and seasons. It will do its function but not to the fullest. That food might give you info and prepare to fight bacterias and flues that are coming in Africa, not in Nepal. So this is also one of the reasons we have to eat locally to be close to the environment and nature we are living in at the moment.

Every body, every climate and even food produced in every land and seasons are different, understand this. Nature is very complex. Even the same family eating the same food grown on the same land has a different effect individually, please understand this. And this is the ultimate truth. We are different and unique in some ways even though we are all the same species.

Small changes in chemicals and hormones and the power of digestive fire and construction in our body creates a huge difference.

Let me help you realize something. Have you ever felt homesick when you leave home for a few days? Of course you have. What do you think you are missing? Parents? Well, even if your whole parents were together with you, you would still feel home sick, think. Do you know why? Because your body actually misses the environment, temperature, air, water, microbes, food, bacterias, soil, and vibrations from that place. And our mind, emotions, and body start reacting to change in that place. This is how powerful the connection between place and environment is.

Of course you get used to it, you adopt etc after some weeks, but know this.

Tips:

One way you can train your taste bud is by eating mono food. See, we have a habit of covering the real taste of food by mixing too many foods in one pot, covering them again with salt, and oil. We use herbs, seasonings, and spices to enhance tastes. Sometimes it is good every time, it may harm you more than do good.

So practice eating them alone sometimes. without covering with any salt or oil or spices. practice tasting foods as they are and accepting them as their unique taste. Let your brain know what that object is for real and let it learn what formulation of enzymes to produce to digest it to its best.

Our body, tongue, and mind are very smart in ways we have never thought about. They work on their own, maybe this is also a reason we take things for granted. We neglect them. but now we know, let's use them to the best.

Record Keeping

It's best if you have a habit of keeping records too. write and record what you ate. We have forgotten this art of feeling, art of knowing our food and its connection with the body. We have forgotten to observe it. We have forgotten to use food as medicine, we have forgotten to use food to help us prepare ourselves for what we want to do tomorrow. We have forgotten that food is our fuel and is living too. They carry more information about nature, diseases, seasons, climates. They prepare us for future coming changes. They help us to adobe and change. We have lost the sense of being human who can feel nature. We have lost the ability to see nature as our part. We have lost our bond. And we think health comes from hospitals and medicines! We have forgotten that we have other senses too to feel and connect with nature and the world. Eyes are not only a sense organs to depend on.

Recalling

So, how do we know what food is doing to us? We have to be observant, next morning, when you sit in your zone again to do your things, recall what you had eaten and did yesterday. This is challenging.

I have told you before too, now connect everything with each other, thoughts, mind, body, food, everything. When you start feeling your body now, when you are doing 30 min focus exercises of mind, when you are moving joints, when you are stretching, and doing strength exercises, feel how it feels, were you able to focus and concentrate and control your thoughts? Is your body tight, or loose? Do you feel heavy, or light? do you feel heat, or cool, do you feel at peace or freaking? This is the power of food. Food has properties and ways to make you feel heavy, light, solid, hot, smooth, rigid, angry, agitated, at peace, everything. This is a way to see how food builds your body. there is a saying "you become what you eat" and you can feel them literally every moment.

So yes, until and unless you are able to feel these subtle sensations in your body caused by food you are eating and ate, consider you have not passed this phase. It will take months actually depending on how much time you give in an awake time to feel it. On the bus, in class, in the park, while on break from work, while eating, while doing nothing, while drinking, be conscious, take a deep breath and try to relax your body, and feel how your mind and body are feeling. This is a good practice for every one to hold back and reflect once in while throughout the day and understand what is happening to you and act accordingly. It will save lots of frustration, burnouts, anger, depression, and all those feelings classified as suffering. It will bring peace of mind and help bring clarity and optimism in life. Creating a ripple effect around your.

Start judging yourself. No one is there to judge you, see you and guide you too. Be your own leader, friend, guide, friend, teacher, motivator, because it needs a lot of discipline, dedication, and self love and care to change and evolve as a better version of human. If you make excuses, reasons, you will reach nowhere, you will get no fruit of life and its wonders. Because what can a blind mind and body see and feel to enjoy?

When you find this connection with your mind, body and soul, we will start to feel a lot alive and you will start to see this world's beauty and possibilities of life itself. Consider you are very far ahead in this journey. You will start to see life from multiple angles and perspectives. You will start to discover who you really are and are meant to be.

Call For Action

Last but not least, if you don't find natural, organic local food around you, leave that place and find where you like it. What is the point of life? you have a choice.

This will be our 6th task.

Next task we will talk about other sense organs.

Till day keep practicing, keep growing, keep changing and keep evolving.

Thank you so much for watching.

7th Task. Sense Organs: Skin & Care

Welcome to day 7th task to do on the journey to be Hunatian.

Again, if you are new, start from the beginning. And to those who have reached here too far, welcome back. Hope everything is going well and you are not skipping anything and finding your own rhythm and style and flow.

Today, as the 7th task we will talk about our skin, how to detox it and keep it natural, how to enhance its sense abilities, how to keep it pure and all.

Reflective Questions

Have you ever felt that you seem to like someone by looks, but you feel hollow while spending time with them? you feel you are connected but don't see the future ahead. you like someone but keep quarreling. you feel you are in love but can't have amazing sex.

Do you feel you want to go out but actually don't like that place when you are there? Do you feel you want a house but end up living somewhere else? you feel like you like that job but end up becoming more lazy? you think you like that food but you end up not finishing it?

Have you questioned why we have hair but we feel like shaving them? Have you thought about who is making us do it? What made us hate our hair and hide it as sin or crime or shame? When did it start?

Have you ever questioned that many people use cosmetics to be beautiful but love those who don't use it?

You must have sometimes in life realized that some people smell very bad and some smell good. And for the same smelly guy, some will smell them as good smells. We all have different smells and different receptors and we all like different things. This is nature. This is nature's way.

Let me tell you how it is related to skin and all the cosmetics, chemicals we are using. We are covering our true self as well as the world around us and being manipulated by smell, chemicals and mass advertisements.

Task Explanation.

So think of our skin. Our skin is very sensitive and important. Among other sense organs, this one covers our whole body. We don't notice but skin is breathing too in many ways.

It absorbs what is in the environment, temperature, moisture, air, chemicals whatever there is around it. Sunlight, moonlight, wind, everything. It helps to regulate body waste such as sweat, temperature and more. They are very alive.

But in this modern time, era, we try to cover it with chemicals, perfumes and cosmetics. We intoxicate them. Cover its pores. Try to achieve fairness as presented by and advertised by movies and cosmetic industries without understanding why we are dark, brown and fair. We try to fight back because we don't understand that our skin pigments to colours are dependent on sun exposure and the environment/climate we live in.

These chemicals, smells and cosmetics and all are also intoxicating our senses, making our skin and ability to feel and sense dull. So we need to do this to be able to feel, all things we are doing, breathing, exercise, food effect, nature's bond and all. Trust me you will start feeling more of subtle temperature changes, pressures, climates, seasons, vibes, wind, freshness, moisture in air and environment around it.

So simple, cut every chemical, and go back to your natural form.

So, in this 7th task, we will cut these products we are using in skin off. We will completely filter all the chemical products and factory products we have been using. Strictly and completely. No matter if it says natural, bio product, fair trade, bla bla in the label. Everything is made in the factory and comes in plastic and jars, filter them, cut off from your daily use routine and ritual. Simple.

Take this as an experiment too. For your body and to understand who you really are without cover ups.

What can it be, soap, shampoo, conditioner, perfume, cosmetics, facewash, foundation, sunscreen, lipsticks, tooth paste, hair oil, yes cut these off. Completely.

Let your skin breathe and absorb what is there in nature naturally. Let your pores breathe naturally for some time. Let your smell spread around your environment naturally and see what you really are, lion or dog.

Withdrawal Syndrome

When you do so, it will have wide real syndromes, that's how these products are made. Actually that is how the body and mind are. If we keep eating something, using something, we start to get dependent so fast, same with people, ideas, books, movies. So when this withdrawal starts coming, you might not like your skin, hair, smell and all. It might crack, get dry, get hair rough, this and that, but let it heal. Let it learn to not spend any more. Let it be natural again. Let it adopt and be what nature and nature need it to be and learn to accept them.

It's like this, understand who you really are at first. See inside out. What you are made of. And work to change it with exercises and lifestyle and food. Not with chemical dependency and covering with fake things. You have to build yourself from core and build it from personality.

On this journey, of course you will feel uncomfortable, people around will feel uncomfortable. You will be small, maybe, you will start to smell what is really around. Your hair may look different and all. It's what social things are made now, but think fuck, I don't care. Let people feel uncomfortable. They don't know your journey, they don't know what you are doing, they don't understand, and you don't need to prove them too, because you are doing it for yourself, you are doing to be natural you. You are trying to see what life is in natural form. You are learning to accept your natural self. You will also start to see what people criticize and how to handle them if you are speaking the truth.

Let them be shocked, and amazed. Let it be like this for some time, people are scared of radical changes, it will pass after a week. It's quite simple, people will adapt too and stop noticing those changes soon. People will start accepting too.

One benefit of this is, you start to spread your natural feel and vibe around you. Through evolution and in all natural kingdoms, we use smell to attract the right food, people and places we like and are fit for. Let it be natural, and you will automatically start to filter many things from life, like what people are not for you, what food is not for you, what places are not for you, what relationships are not for you. That's the power of nature.

Bacterias

Actually we have misconceptions about bacterias. Bacterias are not bad at all. The more bacterias we introduce to our body, the more our body learns to fight them, adopt and use them for themselves. Simple as that. This is nature. Bacteria are nothing more than a pack of information.

That's how vaccines work. So get dirty naturally more, play in mud, rain, nature and all. There is nothing like hygiene and super clean hunnam, you are killing yourself by separating yourself from bacterias from Earth, unless you are an alien.

And after seating, and bathing, wipe your body with a clean cotton towel. And change your clothes everyday. Bath everyday, change everyday. This is enough to keep you clean and healthy and strong immune in balance. With the right amount of bacteria in you. Simple

A few things you can use for bathing are aloe vera, need, soap nuts, shikakai, methi, babul etc. try this and that from nature and try to find out which makes you dry, oily, soft, harsh, etc. every natural element has different properties. It won't work as said in social media reels, you have to discover yourself what works best for you and you also have to understand the same product will have different effects on different seasons. Like if you are bathing with aloe vera in summer, it might do good to you, but if you keep doing it in winter, it might start harming you. So while running and playing with nature, you have to be every thought full of nature, season, month, nature of your body today etc. and that is the interesting part, change everyday and be thoughtful and alive everyday. This is what makes us HUMAN.

Everyone has a different body type. Try one thing for a week. And keep changing till you find your type.

Wear Colourful cloths

Learn to feel pain

Use less medicines for small cuts, wounds, etc

Use natural elements, etc let it learn to heal on its own.

Tips:

Shower

And when we bath, it will be hard to bathe without soap, I know, especially if you live in the city, with pollution and oil and dirt in the air. There is a trick to it.

Exercise, sweat a lot and have a shower. See this sweat helps to dilute dead skins and oils and dirts from our body and if you bathe after exercise, trust me your body will be clean enough to leave helpful bacterias in your body and throw away unwanted bacterias.

Bath in cold water.

Massage

Try massaging your own body as per your body type and seasons to counter withdrawal symptoms from chemical uses before bathing in morning. then exercise and wipe with a clean towel and change clothes.

Washing Cloths

And washing clothes, we do have to use chemicals, use eco friendly for this one. In our place, our ancestors used to wash them with soap nuts, fine ass and warm water. It's not quite possible and I don't know of other ways, let me know if you know it. for now wash it with whatever but wash them very very nicely, till the chemicals are completely off. This is the target, chemicals should not touch your body for an extended period of time.

Spend Time In Nature.

Spend time with the morning and evening sun, moon, wind, and nature. Stay naked. Let it feel, let it heal, let it come back to its original form, let it connect with nature and its mother. And accept your form, without chemicals and cosmetics and all.

Natural Fragrances

There are a lot of options for natural fragrances too if you really want them. Use them as special concessions, but do not end up being dependent on them. find them please.

And if you don't like this after this journey, you can go back to your life using all chemicals and all. No one cares. again let me tell you, you are smelling bad, it is because of your thoughts, your food, lifestyle, work, sleeping bed, and many more. you can change it. I wish you would change places if necessary to connect with nature and be natural.

But for this journey and if you want to move on and into you and nature, filter every chemical. Go to the bathroom and pack them in a sack. Go to the kitchen and do the same, go to your room and pack everything and keep them in a store room till you are finished with this journey.

If it's too much, buy local soap and things if available.

Let me tell you again, these chemicals and cosmetics are the reasons for all the detachment you are having from friends, lovers, food, place, work, yourself and all. These smells are tricking your brain to believe in fake stuff while your higher intellectual body is fighting back and it is creating confusion inside you. These corporations learned to trick just a few sense organs but are still not able to trick all our body and mind. so, wake up before it's too late.

Call For Action

Last but not least, if you don't find exposure to nature around you, leave that place and find where you like it. What is the point of life? you have a choice.

Thank you for your time.

Like, comment, and please don't forget to ask anything.

Change and evolve everyday.

8th Task. Protect Ears

Welcome to the 8th task.

And again if you are new to this journey, please go back and start from the start or keep scrolling. And those who have reached here, welcome and be proud of yourself.

Reflective Questions

Have you ever asked yourself what the range of your ear is?

Do you know musicians can tell what tone, scale the sound is?

Can you tell where and how far the sound is coming from with eyes closed?

Do you have sounds, music, voices you like and dislike?

Do you prefer sound or mechanical nature?

How often do you clean your ears and how? how do you train them? take care of them?

Do you think every sound affects you? Do you think some sound can manipulate you without you knowing? Do you believe in mantra, repetitive sounds?

Have you thought of how you react to certain voices? Why do you find someone speaking irritating while some are pleasant? Is it connected to past memories? preferences?

Is our thought, sound and voice? Is it self hypnotism and manipulation? Who is talking inside there?

Does it mean TV, radio music, advertisements are affecting our thoughts too? Are they manipulating/influencing us into believing something?

Shall you believe in and react to everything you hear? how to filter them, control them?

What is the sound of the universe and earth?

Ask yourself these questions to yourself and look for answers.

Task Explanation.

Now, in this 8th task, what we will do is, we will protect our ears, other sense organs.

How? So far what we have been doing is, we hear something and start reacting to it without giving it another thought. Without consciously trying to understand them, and checking facts.

Like stories, or news, history, or any ideas, religious books, histories, music, any information. We hear them and react to it immediately. If you think carefully, these are not your truth, and reality is yours. You are hearing it from someone's experiences and someone's perspectives and narratives. These all are 3rd person information. Every myths, stories, and books are others' perspectives and narratives. You have not lived it with your own body, mind and spirit, you are just living through one sense organ, that is the ear. You hear and assume they are true or false and react to them, this is a dangerous impulse which might in this modern time control your ability to think, make decisions and actions.

If such is happening with you, you have to be careful and reflect and start to rethink how you want to process any information coming from your ears, and filter them, analyze them, and act accordingly or leave it as just a story someone is sharing.

You have to of course keep your mind open to things too, but reacting to them are other things, you have to differentiate them. The more information you take and keep it in your mind, it's good but at same time we have to be careful too. You have to be careful what to act upon and who to just keep it as information to your brain and life. Because every action changes your life courses.

Be Present

Try to start making choices and act upon events where you are physically mentally spiritually present in a certain environment. I mean be active in the moment, where you are and what is happening around, not something you are hearing on news from another part of the world. Let those people who are on that side deal with them as they know better what is happening in their place. You to be locally available and active on your place. Help people around and interact with what's around.

Not what is in a book or myth or history or news. Today life is full of lies and propaganda and advertisements trying to sell their ideas and products. There is too much information on social media these days to be careful about. Crazy news travels fast and without knowing the whole politics and finance of the world can change, war can happen, just because we all react so fast without knowing if it's true or false. We can not believe in them easily and start fighting. Think if all your senses are present in any scenario, or just your eyes are seeing on tv, book or whatever, if only your ears are present and hearing them from 3rd party media.

Be Careful About Music Industry

Another important thing is about music, i have few friends who listen to music every movement on phone and earphone. They can't walk on the street alone without music. What is this? They can't motivate them to work on something without music.

What is this? I see them listening to them eating, sleeping, walking, working, resting, and reading. This is a really bad dependency. It is a crazy problem if you can not listen to your own thoughts, nature's sound, and what is happening around. You are running away from reality knowingly or unknowingly.

Also this music industry and culture at this time is not healthy. This celebrity culture is not healthy, like it or not. use your common sense.

It's very different to listen live, play yourself, in community, among friends, but it's very oppositional and dangerous to listen on tv or phone every time.

History

Music is very powerful. In ancient kingdoms, rulers used to send music spies to enemy countries and around the world to understand what type of music they listen to and to understand what and how they think and live through it.

Music defines our thinking pattern and how we react to the world. So we have to be careful what we allow ourselves to listen to and how. Music is one of the closest things to modify our thinking patterns, neurons, and minds. Vibration, sound, frequencies can alter our emotions, brains, thoughts, hormones in an instant. More faster than visual, or any other senses.

World War

And there is another event too, during world war, many countries were altering music frequencies and standardized 440 HZ as standard tone and it helped citizens and soldiers to raise their anger level, frustration, violence levels, which was needed for war. And we still use that in our music these days.

And in ancient sanskrit, they use language, mantras, sounds, music in such a way to resonate and alter realities too, as stories say. And it can be seen in many experiments too. We can see music healing people with brain malfunctions, many have recovered too.

Be Careful Of Free Music

So all I'm saying is be careful about what you are listening and saying your favourite music is, be careful where you are downloading them from, sources you are using, HZ you are downloading, because everything is free in nepal like country.

You can easily download them but have you ever thought why they are free here? Have you thought about why our people are not progressive? Have you thought about why we are not developing? Have you thought about why we can't see the future? Why can't we make decisions? Why can't we do what we want to do in life? Why are our will power low? Why are we consumers to the world? Why can I be smart? Why are leaders corrupt? Why are we greedy? Why do we want only a job and money? Why can we not create?

Let me tell you, those people who listen to music less and watch tvs are the only ones who are leading and producing and breaking the rat race and are on top of Nepal's chain. The same goes on in the world too.

Please be careful what you are using your phone to do, watch, see, hear! Use to produce not to be slaves of them. We think we are lucky in Nepal, but they are not helping us. They are controlling our thoughts and minds.

Support and Listen Live and Local

What you can do is, listen to them live, around your community, with your friends.

Learn to play at least one music instrument yourself. You don't have to be pro and all. Just keep one in your life list. Create a group, and play together, play with family, play for the community, teach it to someone. This will heal us. This will heal our community. This is a crucial step.

I know music saves a lot of your emotional breakdown but listen to them live, not from the phone. Please. Stop influencing yourself with fake degrading music on free platforms and the internet.

See physically, colonization has stopped but mentally and spiritually, it's still happening through the internet and technology. We have to protect ourselves, our people, culture, community and life itself.

Be Present and Prefer Natural Sound

Try to be present on natural sound, it's the best. listen to animals, wind, plants, soil, rivers. they heal. go to the forest and listen to the wind and insects. Try to be present to the sounds of people, family, community around you, it will help you get grounded in reality and what is around you. It will help you again to see problems around and find solutions around. It will help you become more practical too. Let your senses feel your environment.

Just don't act on what you see on phone and internet and believe in it. Reality is what you are experiencing around you, rest are just stories for your life.

Training

One way you can train your ears is by learning music.

Another way you can practice hearing sounds with your closed eyes and trying to figure out where sound is coming from. You can do this as a fun activity during bored time around the day.

Another thing you can do is learn to speak well, maintain your voice as needed. Learning to sing helps too. Try it.

Call For Action

Last but not least, if you don't like what you hear around you most of the time, leave that place and find where you like it. What is the point of life? you have a choice.

Keep your mind open for change.

Thank you again for your time and protect your ear and

9th Task. Sense Organs: Eye and Vision

Welcome, 9th task of the journey to be hunatian.

Again if you are new, please, start from the beginning and some slowly. And those who are already on the journey, welcome back again, I hope the journey is going well.

Today, the 9th task, what we are going to do is, we will talk about our eyes, another sense organ. What we see, filter what comes through it and control what we choose to see.

Saying

A wise man even questions his visions, thinks many times before reacting.

Reflective Questions.

Have you ever thought in this manner? If you see a cat being chased by a dog, do you see the reason behind it too? Are those reasonings vision too? Are those thoughts voices too? What are they? What shall you react to? Do you believe in what you see only or do you think of past events leading to this event even if you were not present in the past, before reacting?

What is your favourite colour? Where did this favourite thing come from? I hope by now, you must have realized that there is nothing like your favourite thing in this world. It's a stupid idea designed to separate yourself from reality and make you play games of like and hate. grow above this. every colour is affecting you. every sound is affecting you. every person is affecting you. one way or another. You should focus on learning what is affecting you in what manner. not fall under an illusion of favourite things without understanding it.

1st Hand Experiences & 2nd Hand

What is happening around us, home, family, room, school, community, etc and some 1st hand visions, while things on internet, internet, tv, newspaper, magazines, posters etc are 2nd hand visions.

We can not control what we see in 1st hand experiences or what is happening around, it just happens and we see them, we can evaluate them and decide how we want to understand those scenarios and keep them in mind as we want to, positive or negative. Here our whole body is present. our whole sense organs are present. we are alive there.

But in cases of 2nd hand visions, they are products of someone's vision and creation. There we were not present physically when that event took place. We are just present there with our eyes and ears, we can not smell them, touch them, interact with them. It's like a story for us. and there is a possibility it can be manipulated, some details modified depending on the personality of that story teller. we can not trust them to the fullest. We have to be careful.

Just like in this scenario. I am a story teller and you are watching 2nd hand data. so please dont believe in what i say, do your fact check and use your common sense too. Thank you.

Reality

So, for now, what's happening is, the world was fine sometimes ago. We used to see what was happening around us only locally and we used to build reality based on it. TV was something to take as entertainment. We used to see problems around and work with the community to find solutions. We used to discuss life face to face with other humans. We were alive. We expressed emotions, little wrinkles, anger, violence, peace, love, support, everything with all our body present in real events happening at the moment.

But since mobile came, one of the fascinating technological tools.

We are learning to act and interact with a screen, machine without understanding its limitations to express as humans, deliver feelings, scenarios, emotions as real life humans.

We can now excess much more information on our screens, just by scrolling our fingers. The world has come to our finger tip. We are moving towards global culture and one world. It's literally a tip on our finger. Which is nice. We get to experience different languages, cultures, stories, myths, etc from around the world in real time. but at the same time what's happening is we see a lot of things we are not supposed to interfere with. We have started to forget the real world around us, our family, culture, problems etc and pretending to belong to global culture without realizing who is promoting, influencing this global culture.

And most of the time, we don't know what we want to see and what we are looking at, how we are supposed to act. We are just scrolling. We are taking a break in our life, job, killing time, waiting, resting, vacations and literally everywhere, even in toilets. And what started as fun is trapping us. killing what it means to be human, family and community.

Most of the time, we are watching what algorithms want us to see, depending on the place we live in, city we live in, companies which want to sell us something, sometimes propaganda politicians want to come true. It has started to be a mass manipulative machine and market place for big corporations and propaganda spreading for politicians.

Am not saying we are doing everything wrong too. We have the power to see and watch what we want too, but seriously, how many people are using it in such ways? They say the dark web is made of almost 90+% of the internet and it's full of crap. Even in what is left of the accessible internet world, there are more fake things than real ones.

Most of the time, we don't even remember what we are watching, we don't use it to learn and memorize things. We don't realize anything, we don't filter anything that is there on the internet. We are not checking facts, and how we see it, it's not helping anyone more than someone trying to sell something.

So, we have to learn to take control back in our hands. We have to learn to choose what we want to know, search, watch for growth and development of self. We have to be able to decide what we want to see, not what someone wants to show to you and kill your time and creativity and thinking capacity. We have to learn to use it to plan our life, future and goals. We have to learn to achieve our targets. We have to harvest the ability to control what we see to get what we want, who we want to be.

Because like food, like sound, we become what we see too. Eyes and visions are one of the things we trust so fast and easily. We take them as reality of whatever comes from our eyes. And in the internet and phone, that is not most of the cases. There are more misleading things than truth. I don't know how, but that's what has become of this world and technology. We have not yet understood and used the internet and phone to the best of its ability to help humans, nature and the future. We need to learn them too.

So how can we do that? Since we are learning to be little conscious of most things like breathing, our body and its conditions, food, sound, etc daily, we will now pay attention to what information we are taking from the phone/visually too.

I am talking about phones because that's what we use these days most of the time but I do mean books, newspapers, magazines, posters, televisions, etc which show events etc from distant worlds and places.

Chose what you want to see, now what they want you to see

If we put little mind into it. On the internet and phone part, what we see visually, we can literally use settings to modify how we want to use our phone and settings. We can turn off all the auto feeds, history, data collection, advertisements, in most of the social media platforms. We can start using them in incognito mode too. Using VPNs is good too. Control everything you can. Read terms and conditions, we have AIs now, ask them to use them more instead. There is a way in our culture, the more you ask the more you know. And this saying is very powerful to open up your mind. Be someone who asks questions and asks them, and uses the internet and phone to do this more. Ask, not just consume what it says.

In most cases, you are not looking for answers, on the internet, you are just opening social media feeds in habits. You subconsciously turn to the phone to kill some time, you wont get auto feeds and wont end up scrolling for hours. This is our habit most of the time because of mobile phones. We get some time, we need rest, we are waiting for someone, we take our phones out and start scrolling, without thinking. This is not good. Actually anything done without conscious choices is concerning.

This simple move can save you a lot of your discipline and mobile dependency. Because you will also feel lazy to keep searching for what you want to see. So this move can save you here too. Slowly you will start to develop a habit to look for your phone only when you really need it. What you really have questions or curiosity to search on the internet. You will start using it only when you need to talk to someone.

And with this, you will end up being more active in the present moment and in what actually is happening around your environment and surroundings. And you will start living in reality more. Living virtually, seeing things more in virtual worlds are not too healthy, for eyes and mind too. It shapes our behaviour, personality, ability to connect with real humans, solve real problems in society, home and in personal life too.

It is a fact that most tech giants don't allow their children to use phones before 18 or 20. And there are cases of children developing serious focus, concentration domain disorders too.

What I'm saying is learn to control what you want to see, not see what they want you to see. Be the master of your phone and what you see. It will then start feeding you good and necessary things to make you better human, it will guide you to your better future, what you want to be, what you want to achieve.

Task Explanation

Wash your eyes before and after sleep with cold water.

Learn about different colours and how they affect your mind, thoughts, memories etc. and learn what your room colour and clothes you are wearing is doing to you.

Learn to paint as a hobby. art

Watch more natural elements like, nature, horizons, sunrise, sunset, moon, stars, river forest, sky, etc. go travel to see the world for yourself.

React to local events, problems, conflicts and developments, leave things on the internet or another part of the world alone, let them deal with it.

We should spend more time on the real world and real problems in our own life, family and community. This internet has brought worlds together and in most of the cases we will be seeing problems from another part of the world and acting on them while we don't see what is happening around us and acting on them. And most of the time, they are not true either, what's there on the internet.

Sleep in a completely dark room. sleep on natural time as per season. or sleep with natural moon light.

Learn to see with inner eyes too.

If we saw one dog chasing one cat, we can say that is bad and evil of the dog, or we can say, they are doing nature's thing, or we can assume they are from the same house and are playing, or we can say the cat sold food from the dog and the dog is now chasing. It's all up to us to assume and choose to believe what we want to believe. That is our reality. I recommend you always find multiple reasons while analysing certain scenarios. But now to jump to conclusions and act on it.

Learn to see colours in dreams too.

We spent around 8 hours sleeping. I don't want to go deep into it now but, if you start recalling your dreams in the morning and writing them in a journal, and again recalling them in the day and before going to sleep. slowly you will start to remember your breams naturally for a longer time.

You will start tricking your mind and brain to remember as it is an important part of life. Slowly, you will also start building the ability to be alive in your dreams. You will start being able to control your dream. bingo you can now live two lives. one of physical reality and another of fantasy reality.

In the past people used to channel these art for many things.

Call For Action

Last but not least, if you don't like what you see around you most of the time, leave that place and find where you like it. What is the point of life? you have a choice.

Keep your mind open for change.

Let me know what you think about it.

Thank you again for your time and protect your ear and

10th Task. Sense Organs: Nose & Smell

Saying From The Past

Nose and Lungs are for breathing, Stomach and mouth for eating and food. Remember this.

Reflective Questions

Reflection 1

Task Explanation

Always Breath from Nose no matter what.

Exercise and clean them well, stop digging them.

Clean them while bathing. breathe while bathing too from nose and when you are finally finished bathing, simply blow the nose or use your finger to clean them, don't use soap or any chemicals. Just pure water to clean them.

Focus on Breath

Like we have learned in meditating and mind focus exercise, keep practicing them any where its possible, on road, bus, waiting, breaks, etc.

Smell more of Nature, Less of Chemicals

Focus and take time to smell nature, land, water, air, flowers, food, etc. practice them to notice them. Close your eyes and smell different elements.

Learn what smell triggers what portion of your brain, memory, mood and emotions. seriously. also learn to see them and how they manipulate you. Learn to control them.

If where you are living does not smell good and natural, leave that place, what are you doing in that place, don't lie to yourself with your bondages, reasons and responsibilities. just leave. There are millions of places, villages, and cities around the world. Find your place, and friends, you will find them too.

Don't use any chemical in you: Trust

We have discussed this in the skin part too. dont use chemicals for yourself, and if you meet someone who does, never, never trust that person to the fullest, until and unless you have some legal documents signed as business deal or unless you get to spend some time with that person in person without smelling chemical covers.

11th Task: Sense Organs: Fasting & Intuition

Saying From Past

One will know himself in times of hunger.

Hunger is a driving force of humans, it has helped us to thrive, push our limits, leave our comfort zones, try daring and life threatening choices, it has helped us think out of the box, it has helped us survive, thrive and evolve as humans.

Reflective Questions

Have you felt that hunger? This modern world has not actually because there are food available in countless forms now. People have forgotten that hunger serves humans. Actually, people these days will collapse without food for more than 4 hours.

Let me remind you, our body needs to learn to stay hungry to heal, and grow, not just body, our mind too and soul.

Think and try to recall, have you died of hunger yet? Have you seen someone die of hunger within the community? no one, it does not work like that, humans will always find food to survive. Look, even one dwelling in the jungle finds it, even those living on the road find it. So don't panic and fear dying of hunger.

And think again, when was the most creative of ideas, thoughts, daring choices, moves occurred in your life in the past? It has to be in times of hunger, at night, somewhere hiking, or some uncalculated events and remember these were times where your stomach was empty for at least 6 + hours. recall and reevaluate these patterns yourself. it might be happening unconsciously but now lets learn to do it consciously.

Reality

There are many ways and types of fasting now, 16 hrs, weekly, according to the moon cycle, according to sun movement, and eclipse etc. There are many reasons behind fasting from around different cultures. There are physical reasons, spiritual, mental, etc. just discover it yourself. Open up your mind.

Reflection

Task Explanation

Now another important thing we will do is start fasting once a week. or do it once on the 14th day, according to the moon cycle. Especially on the 11th day of the moon cycle from both the new and full moon. It is called ekadashi in our calendar. This is when the moon is stronger for earth and its dwellings.

No excuses for this thing. No reasons, nothing, just do it. Water fast.

Take it as a day to rest your digestive system, consume less energy, develop your body to live in survival mode, crisis mode, hunger mode, train your mind and spirit to self control, sacrifice, discipline, and stick to commitment. And trust the process. Build body resilience and healing.

If possible take rest from heavy work too. Just sit and relax and reflect and heal yourself. Easy day.

Day Before and After

Few things to keep in mind, fasting starts from the day before and stops the day after. Don't be that stupid and eat a heavy meal, meat, etc before fast thinking you wont get to eat tomorrow and same after a day after fasting. you are killing yourself and your discipline. Your suppression of hunger reflecting like this, with craving and greedy actions will ruin your life more than fasting one day. Be careful.

If you open a box full of pressure, you might be blown off. practice slow closing, slow closing of pressure. eat light, preparing the body for fasting a day before and also after fasting day, eat light.

Breaking Fast

Everytime you are breaking fast, start with water, or something light liquid or food. light and refreshing.

Fruits, soaked nuts, soup, vegetables or lentils soup are best in small portions. And after an hour you may eat a little more, still light.

Fruit juices are not so good options. Eat the whole food instead, local and sweet fruit.

Q&A

Call For Action

12th Task. Recall Before Sleep

Saying

Ones who refuse to look back will never see the future.

Reflection

Past, present and future are not that disconnected, they are one thing. They are connected in ways we don't realize.

If we just keep living in present, we will miss

If we just keep thriving into future, we will miss life

If we stay in past most of the times, we will miss future

So, everyday, we have to learn to travel into all three dimensions.

In morning, be present in self and environment

In day, work with team for future

In evening relax

Before sleep, recall the day, analyse the present and replan the future

Reflective Questions

Intro

Hello, welcome to the 12th task of the journey to be hunatian.

Those who are new again, please start from the beginning, this journey can help you understand who you are in the core and roots, it can help you develop yours too.

And those who are on journey, welcome back again, you are about to make it. and hope this is going well.

Now the 12th task will be.

Revision

Lets review so far what we did,

We created our personal space, a holy place to reflect the past, understand self, and work to change and grow as a better being.

We started observing our breadth, understanding our thoughts and detoxing them.

We started consciously paying attention to our body, with exercises, movements, etc.

We understood food and started eating with more mindfulness.

We filtered what we use on our skin, like chemicals and all.

We are filtering what we want to hear

We are filtering what we want to see.

We are filtering what we want to smell

We are fasting once a week or fourth day

Task Explanation

Now the 12h task will be, with everything we are doing, at night, when we finish everything and go to sleep, we will recall the whole day.

Finish your self cleaning, journal writing etc, if you are writing and all your work and go to bed in a dark room or natural moon lights as we have told. please go to bed clean because that is where you spend 6 to 8 hours almost dead, imagine bacteria multiplying with your body warmth. so, keep it clean and let your body rest in peace and heal, rather than fighting bacterias constantly at night too.

Again, no music, incense, room freshener, whatever, just the sound of nature only, sleep in the breathing room, don't completely close the doors and windows of your room please. This is not healthy. Lights off. Try sleeping in natural darkness, no lights, dim lights whatsoever. Let the moon decide what light there should be while sleeping. Notice them too.

Lying down on bed, flat, relaxed, calmly, let yourself sink.

Now, close your eyes, breathe a few long breaths, imagine relaxing, comfortable, legs and hands loose, spread normally, comfortable pillow, not too high, not too low. Relaxed. Calm. and slowly start recalling everything that happened in the morning. First, move fast, with what you have in mind, and can remember without much effort, think naturally, then second time move in depth and try to recall and arrange memories as they happened in the time frame. 3rd time again try digging a little more in depth.

The more detailed information you can recall, the more powerful and healthier your mind will become. More powerful with memory will become too. What did you do, how did you feel in the morning, what was the weather like, what was the moon day, what you did in the day time, in evening time, what did you eat, whom did you meet, what did you watch, who said what, what did you smell, what did you think, everything.

Think more and more about yourself. And reevaluate them, play multiple reflections, the more you can push yourself the better you will be, there are no shortcuts. It is hard, it's boring, and it is frustrating too. But this is just the beginning like any other exercises, everything feels challenging at the start of new ventures, new skill developments are always boring. Keep on.

And by the time you are done recalling the day, you will feel a little dizzy, sleepy, tired and you will fall asleep easily so that you won't notice them. It will take 10 to 30 minutes only.

Beaware

But, there is one danger you should be careful of, while recalling, you might end up liking some incident, or hating some incident and start imagining and driving things taking it to something that actually did not happen. This is a trick you mind will play to entertain yourself and leave your activity you want to do and focus on. Please don't, stick to reality, stick to actual events, stick to facts, don't let it create imagination and fantasies.

Rather than thinking of what you could have done, what you want to do, what went wrong and what went right, just think of facts and what really happened. This will help you to understand reality and facts and help you accept things as they are. Think about your life. Don't think of someone else here. This is your world, this is your reality. Focus on 1st hand experiences, not what someone told you, what you saw on tv or internet. Think of real practical life, what happened with you and around you.

Think Of Your Body Relaxing and Healing and Resting

And once you are done recalling your day. Start focusing on your body. Just like you were thinking about your body in the morning, from toe to head or from head to toe, focus your thoughts on each part of your body, and imagine it is relaxing, imagine they are healing, resting and are as light as a feather falling to sleep. Start visualizing that it is relaxing. Be grateful, thankful to your body. Imagine getting healthier and healthier.

If you do this much, we will have deep sleep and you will wake up more fresh, fully rested and full of energy. You will wake up with clarity, motivation and confidence too.

Circle Of Habit

And again you will start with morning tasks, and so on throughout the day watching and living carefully, consciously and thoughtfully. This will create a complete circle of healing journey. Of becoming better of what you are as human, self love, self care, exercising all your mind, body and soul, changing, healing, everything will come inside this. Making you better and better, you will start living and feeling alive too. You will start to catch natural rhythm and circle too, pushing you closer to nature. You are constantly polishing your sense organs too.

In this circle, you will prepare in the morning for a day, have control of sense organs and at night you will end with reflection and healing. This journey will make you your own master of your life. You will start to have total control of your life. Your decisions, visions, clarity, purpose, goals will start to make sense.

13th Task: Skills To Have As Humans

This will be the last video of this series. and one of the important ones too.lets wrap this series.

Welcome back to the journey.

Saying From Past happiness, sadness, anger, frustration, whatever feelings, emotions you feel, they are produced by the same chemicals and hormones inside your body.

One who feels good drinking and doing toxicating habits to himself and ones who feel good reading and self improving are the same chemicals inside our body.

Ones who feel lazy, eat unhealthy and ones who eat healthy, and are active also have similar chemicals and hormones being produced inside our body.

That means, it's all about what we have been taught, where we live, the circle we have, environment, our upbringing, that influences our actions, lifestyle, choices externally, but internally the same chemicals and hormones are produced.

But the consequences of those actions are different. If you choose to harm your body, mind and spirit in the name of happiness, fun, crazy experiences, etc, you will get weaker, dumber, slower and the baby you will give birth to will be more unhealthy than you. On the other hand if you choose to keep yourself healthy, fit and learning, your body will produce healthier humans.

Reflective Question Now the choice is yours, how do you want to be happy, joyful, etc, by destroying yourself or by improving yourself?

So, what does it mean to be human for you? just live and die and don't care for another generation, child, nature? or Live responsibly.

As I said, both types of people are happy, sad, angry, and joyful in their own ways. The chemicals our body produces are similar, it's just external objects of attachment and action that are different.

Reality I have few people around me too, who see life on social media and wish to have them, car, house, hot man or women besides, money, party, etc. but they have zero interest in investing time to learn about anything. zero plans. They find happiness in eating, going to restaurants, eating trending clothes, following trends from social media, usually that they just show as the final product. and people are misled with this. People want that final product only. They don't want to work for it. understand what they actually want. filter distractions. and Most of the time they don't know who they are, they don't know what life is, they don't know what they want, so they just follow social media trends, what others are following. and this is not life.

One must learn to understand self, find purpose, dream big, plan well, and work for it too. and no one is teaching this on the internet. Some actually do, but people don't have the patience to watch 1 hour lecture hours and hours, day by day. We are losing this skill to listen to learn because of reel culture.

So again, what do you want to be? learners, doers and achievers and producers or dreamers, losers and sufferers consumers?

Reflection I know no one is perfect. this is now how nature is, no mango trees are the same in nature, not every day are the same everyday. not any species of animals are the same in height, weight, structure and body construct. That is what makes nature different and interesting too. As per humans too, our flaws, mistakes, different colours, heights, races, shapes makes us special and unique. and we must learn to accept it, cherish it.

And this world now, things have to be perfect. It is the biggest lie we are being told about. to me master of one thing is also a lie, to use those masters in a corporate box, forcing him/her to work in specific department to earn and again spend his/her earnings to depend on all other services in life, most of the time again run by same corporates, where another individual is working in another department. creating a loop or work, service, money, slavery like a machine.

As humans, we should be multi talented, "jack of all, master of none". I heard some one saying that this saying is manipulated. It says "jack of all, master of none, better than everyone" and I chose to believe in this. These humans are hard to control, manipulate and buy by corporations, politics etc. this is one of the bases of Hunatians too.

Demonstration That's why as humans we have to learn a lot of things. First things is to keep on ming is always:

Imagine, brainstorm, mind map, think of an idea/task

Research, compare multiple sources

Redesign as your need/engineering

Build/manufacture/create

Put it to use

Share with everyone

This method can be used everywhere in life. cooking food, exercise, art, music, construction, engineering, family plans, business, anything. Every human should learn this art.

Task Explanation

Apart from it, we have to learn to use all our mind, body and soul to the fullest. Throughout life. Imagine your body is a musical instrument, so what will you do? keep it in the corner? or learnt to play good music as far as possible? choice is yours

Here i have something to share on what hobbies and skills you should shoot for too, as humans. This won't happen overnight, it takes time, life, to do it all, but just having a target and mind set will take you to these places naturally over the course of your life. Of course you have to push yourself a little more once in a while. You have to make choices to execute and chose it over other activities over life once in a while

First:

You have to be interested about start, cosmos, and its cycle, law and regulations and systems, effect on earth, effect on nature, effect on human body, mind and soul, effect on hormones and chemicals inside nature and humans, Learning from ancient knowledge helps to get a perspective.

You have to be interested about Earth, where we live, our home. its elements, climates, rotation, its movement, speed, energies, shields, magnetic flows, winds, water, electric flow, its law, rules and regulations, patterns, its belongings, its effect on humans, our bond, connections.

You have to be interested in other animals, plants, microbes, etc, our bond, connections, importance, their laws and regulations, their system, eco system, how they function, etc. after all they make us, we make them, we have to survive together on earth. you have to learn to share too.

You have to be interested in the food we eat, its formation, our bond. how we are connected, how it bridges between nature and humans. You have to learn to keep yourself alive at least and learn to farm, or collect food, find them, store them, transport them and share too. learn to be responsible to share with other nature, species and humans too.

You have to be interested in self, mind, body and soul, emotions, intellect, how to train them, how to understand and use them to the fullest, how to evolve them, how to take care of them.

You have to be interested in other humans, which is much easier once you know yourself better.

You have to be interested in the language of nature, math aka science, ways to calculate, evaluate, store data, analyse, research, design, plan, etc. one have to learn to share findings with people from the world for collaboration too.

You have to learn about machines, the language of computers, and technologies too. and use them to help humans, nature and technology live in a better world, with better policies, rules, regulations. We have to learn to use them to balance peace and harmony.

And last but not least art. I would like to elaborate on this one. What is art? music? dancing? painting? drama? movie? Most people think these are art because our world atm just highlights these subjects more. What if I tell you that as human, your body, mind and soul, is an art itself. There are multiple elements playing its part to produce you. there are billions of years of making, every era, solar dust, movement, earths climates, evolution, changes, destruction, your family history, lives of ancestors, places we have lived, microbes, dust, diseases, sun rays, society over eras, wars, pain suffering, every thing has created you, us, one body. Even after birth, our family, environment, culture we live in, education we got, food we ate, timetable routine, everything makes us who we are, we all are unique. Imagine over these billions of years of change, every small movement, dust particles, events, one single bacteria has altered everything. that how every human, as well as every element are different. Even small vibrations, pressures, conditions, and a single ray can change the product. That's what one individual human holds, the way we walk, talk, speak, think, learn, move, sit, choose clothes, dress, write, grammers, sketch, sing, dance, these are special, these are unique, these are art. have this in mind and feel proud about it. No one else has to like you as art, every one has their own taste and style. But as an artist, one must have the ability to accept other art, criticize them, question them, answer them too. so, don't look into other art and start coping with them as if you are not that of an art. This modern pop, celebrity culture has ruined people's confidence and soul. They want to be celebrities, they want people to follow them, they want to be ones to be celebrated, they want to be ones to control what to like and dislike, they want to be able to set trends, colour, cloths, foods, lifestyle to follow. They want to be worshiped as gods, they want all the attention, they want to set beauty standards, they want control. simple. and people are following them too blindly. without realizing that they too are art in themselves. believe in yourself. trust your body, mind and sourness. trust the process of what made you. work for change, learn to grow, and improve your art. Keep evolving and refining your art. create your own style, clothes, fashion, walk, move, music, etc. have that confidence, forget there is standard dress code, standard musical note, standard writing style, standard technology, standard lifestyle. be bold and crazy. Hunatian: Human Of Future

Conclusion: End of Part One

Now, here, if you compete these and have specific skills and knowledge, you will be qualified to apply for HUNATE Project Engineer Team

Conclusion

Yes this is it for your beginner journey to be hunatian. Simple it is. But challenging too. It all depends on you. If you can do this for 3 months without any break, you shall be blessed with its fruit. I don't have to explain anything.

You will see who you will become. You will be thankful to yourself.

As I have said, not many will be able to complete it on the first try. But keep trying it. You will not regret it. If you can complete it, keep it to yourself, it's not about the challenge and final test. It's about your life, even though I don't have to know it. Nobody has to know. Or if you think this can be helpful to someone, feel free to share it with them when you are done. Or keep it to yourself. I just want another awakened human, capable, disciplined, wonder, thinker, and doors on this earth, nothing more.

This at the end will make this earth better. One less sheep in the race will make the race interesting too. All the best, if you think this was bullshit, please keep living your life, there is nothing to be done and there is nothing I want from you. Nobody cares.

So ya this is it. This is a journey, to understand who you are, what you are made of and what you can become as humans. And yes thank you for your time. Take care and keep changing and evolving. And see you in some next task or courts.

In this journey you will feel more lost, more than finding you and this is the beauty. For maybe a year or two. Or it might take 10 + years. going. Make it your life, not just a one year challenge. You will see how rich life will be. You will cry, suffer, be in pain and you will also find happiness and blissfulness in them. But don't stop. You will eventually find yourself. You will lose people, friends, places, hobbies, interests and what you thought was your purpose in life too. Don't worry, you will be filtering what really didn't matter and what you thought was important, but not actually. You might lose your job, courier and all too but don't worry again, you will come out as a confident individual capable enough to build your own empire and life.

Part 2 (External)

After you finish part 1 of the journey. You should start his journey.

While part 1 was a more personal journey inwards, now part 2 will guide you to filter elements and things around, surrounding, home, environment because you alone does not make life. There are more elements connected to your life, living, non living, seen, unseen. So we must be conscious about them too.

Filter Kitchen Utensils

About utensils we use in kitchen to cook and eat

See we are trying to look into and find fields we are connected to and are directly affecting our health and life. And cooking materials are one of the important things we can not ignore.

Teflon, aluminium, plastic utensils, etc are affected in ways we can imagine. Do your research if you want, there are many papers related to them. Actually you don't need one, use your common sense and use your mind itself. And act upon it.

You are knowingly, unknowingly harming you and your family and future generations without knowing or knowingly. In most middle class families and poor families, money to buy good quality utensils is a problem, sometimes they are just lazy to think and act about it. Sometimes they don't think slow poisons are any poison at all. We think, this is how we have been doing and we are still alive so let it be this way, there is nothing to worry. And over time we don't understand why we are still unhealthy, why we don't see life clearly, why we can't make decisions, why nothing feels like living, why we cant see the bigger picture in life.

See, healthy food and organic food are not good enough if you are making/preparing them in unhealthy utensils. Imagine you came out of the bath wearing the same old dirty cloth after wiping yourself with a dirty towel. What is the point of it? Yes, just like that.

So in this exercise now, we will consciously start filtering kitchen utensils too. Start with plastics, teflon coated and aluminum cookwares. Then also remove any high pressure cooking pots. Start using clay pots, ceramics, copper, brass, iron, stone, glass, silver, kit, etc. just do it. One by one start replacing them. Every element has specific uses. In some cases, study them, research about them, for example don't cook or eat sour foods in copper, you will end up in hospitals. It's quite simple, if you have to invest too, please convince your family slowly and start investing one by one, and get rid of all unwanted materials.

Maybe change cooking things first. Then eating utensils, then storing jars etc. it's a one time investment in most cases but it will save you and your family a life, intellect, health, prosperity, nutrition, and luxury. You will start loving your kitchen too. There is a saying, kitchen is the place of fire, kitchen is the heart of home, so please invest in spreading love and health and prosperity from your heart of home.

Choose utensils as fit for your place and body.

This again will take 3 days, 1 day research about utensils and chemicals and their uses, 2nd day make a choice and categorize everything you have in your house, filter which you can and 3rd day maybe replace what you can. Maybe do it for yourself first, then slowly start replacing it for guests and all too.

Filter Cloth Materials

About clothes and fabrics we use to wear and to sleep and at home.

Welcome back to the journey again. Today let's talk about the clothes we are wearing. After home, our clothes are another shelter provider. We use it to protect ourselves from climates, seasons, shame, and to express ourselves but in the process are we aware of what materials we are using? Are we getting healthier with them? Many of us don't think so. Just wear what you have, buy what they show on tv and wear things that so called celebrities and influencers show us being paid to promote certain clothes. What fabrics are we using?

Now in this modern time there are literally clothes designed for every specific work category, there are clothes for fire, water, wind works. There are clothes for sports, rest, safety, construction, everything. We have to understand. And we need them too. They are tools to enhance our physical forms.

What I am talking about most of the time is about what we were normally. Many clothes are made with plastics fibers, nylon, polyesters, petroleum products for specific uses, but they are not meant to be worn through the day or a long extended period of time.

We will categorize our clothes now. We will look into our closets and see what we all have. And filter them. And consciously choose to wear what nature has given, wood, cotton, linen, silk, plant fibers, etc as daily and our 1st choice. Do your more research on your one.

Not only this we will do the same with bed sheets, furniture fabrics, cottons, everything.

Make good choices, let it heal you, not drain you. Make sure there are no plastic and petroleum based around you so you don't breathe them in slowly over time.

And one more suggestion, use multiple colour cloths, don't fill your closet with single colour cloths. Every colour has its own properties, like light colours are good for sun and summer, darker are good for winter. Learn about them too. You can choose colours depending on what lifestyle you have. What your work is. Colour plays a very important role in hormonal manipulation and thoughts and overall decision making in day. Find and study about them too. Use what's best for your environment and body. Find cloths are producers who use natural dyes and colours for fabrics.

The goal here in this course is to support nature based elements in life. Everywhere. And heal self, earth and future. And also to get as close as possible to nature advancing too. Using tools and technologies in the right way.

Also buy clothes locally, support the local economy, like food mile, this also carries stories of it alone. If you like some design, get it from the internet, and go to a nearby tailor, and ask them to make one. Simple. It will be cheaper too. Don't follow stupid trends and brands please.

Filter Materials Around You

House, environment we live in, materials we are around.

This is also what we have to think about. See this is how we grow, we are born without our approval and choice. Parents start guiding us as they believe. They chose the environment, place, community we should grow in. They send us to school, where they train us the way they want us to be, society and this failing system starts demanding us to work in one of the branches of this failing system as a job. And marry, build a house, watch celebrities and have fun, live under the umbrella of some religion, politician, idea and die. Simple and good life to serve this failing system. This system here, is preset, pre designed by those who have power and business and influence. This system is fixed, it is connected with controlling media, entertainment, food, medicine, school, politicians, technology, love, family bond, community, future. Everything leads to the same failing system.

Everything we are talking about filtering in this system is incorporated and carefully designed into this system to keep us playing the same game through life and give another human life to do the same again.

Let me tell you something. If where you are living, working, so called struggling does not provide these things:

Fresh water, quality air, live land, sun and moon exposure,

Eco, natural, house to live in.

Quality morning time, routine, health, peace,

Source of Natural, local, organic food of varieties

3 generations of family unity living together

Supportive, progressive, wise Community unity

Own business or family business (eco ethical)

Excess to internet, books,

Excess to (ethical) technology, green energy, transport,

Excess to world culture, travellers,

Excess to art and craft locally, (music, dance, drama, sports, etc)

You should think about changing this place. It's not worth it to struggle there paying all mentioned prices. After all these are the things you struggle in life for, why choose to sacrifice everything that makes life to just chase after money? What is the point here? Start thinking about it. I know this place feels like a dream, but all I'm saying is start dreaming of a place like this, start working towards it. Start looking for it. Maybe even design, plan and build one yourself. Trust me this will be a gift to yourself, loved ones, parents, and your future kids to come in this world. Don't be too selfish chasing after your so called dreams and destroying earth, relations, community, future. How you live and modify your body will be passed on to the next generation. Remember this. Everything will be stored in your genes and DNA. Don't end up creating another unhealthy kid in an unhealthy environment and be proud of being in death bed.

Think now, act on it now. Change now. If you think you are alone, you are not, there are millions of people out there, all scattered around the globe. We are just disconnected but we are there. We all are doing our parts in ways we can. And this matters.

Manage Your Waste Production

First of all, why are there more waste products? Who is creating them? In places like Nepal, we don't produce them. How come they are coming to Nepal?

Plastic and all did not come that long before in Nepal. Before plastics we used to use cloths, cottons, leaf plates to celebrate festivals, we used to smoke leaves, we used to use clothes to carry stuff, we used wood, bamboo to carry liquids and we had no problem using them and throwing them in nature. We were not harmed. It was our habit.

But when plastic started to come to villages of Nepal, it didn't come with awareness and a process to manage them. We thought it simply like bio degradable elements. We started eating coke, biscuits, cigarettes and started throwing wrappers here and there. We didn't know the consequences. We didn't care about teaching waste plastic management. We had a habit of throwing stuff after use and we did the same with plastic.

We used to consider water sources holy. We kept them pure and clean. We used to clean them. We had attached stories of snakes and gods to just keep those sources clean. But with plastic, we use shampoo and throw a cover just like that.

We go to buy vegetables, clothes etc. everytime we go, we bring back home 10 to 20 more plastics. We know we have bags at home though. We don't bother to carry our own bags. We don't bother asking shop kippers to just put stuff we are buying in our own bag from home. And funny thing is these companies make their own bags with logs and every one wants to carry that when they shop. Just to show to strangers that day on the street to know that they just bought one more trendy thing. There are unboxing trends too.

Do we actually need to use plastic? Or is it just those oil companies who decided to make products out of waste from petroleum products and make more money?

This is what our technologies can do? This is development? Can we really not make bio degradable packing materials?

Keep track of waste products like plastics, cans, etc you use and produce personally and family. (trace their origin, filter them, segregate them, reuse them, cut off if possible)

See, we are busy with life so we don't have time to think and act and reflect but trust me, there are piles of china size plastics and waste floating in air, land, sea, everywhere. There is waste and plastics in our food, body and even in our brain. We have to put our minds to it.

Filter Parents, Relatives and Friends

Every human can be what they want to be. Not everyone is the same. Habits, life, food, taste, style are different for sure.

In one person's time, he/she has to meet every type of person. Good, bad, evil, kind, progressive, lazy, independent, dependent, cunning, true, etc. they all are around us. In the name of family, friends, community etc. we can not control it. The environment. We can not always be surrounded by good people.

Even if we select highly intellectual, healthy, smart humans and choose to live in isolated society. Human nature is such, small gestures, comparisons, gossips, challenges, misunderstandings, mis communication will start to arise. And at some point groups will start to form. One will start to get closer to some. There are unsatisfactions and all. We can not run away from these small human emotions.

So best is to be able to see where we are at the moment. And understand what and who other humans are around us. We can't change other humans. If you can for some time in your presence, someone else will inspire them to do other things as you leave. So we must not try too. We can share what we think but can't expect other humans to be who you want them to be, never. So, again, knowing them is the best you can do and with that knowledge, you can act, spend time, plan days, think of partnering or leaving.

Think of collaborating or staying away. Plan to be friends on leave. Stay with them or leave. We don't have to justify to anyone. In silence, observe, in silence leave or stay.

Every other human will leave. Your parents, your wife, husband, your children, your friends, your community. At the end it's all you. You will spend all your time with you till you live. You will never leave you. You have to work with you all your life. Understand this. With this understanding, always listen to yourself. But as i have said, first build your self stronger, smarter, capable, knowledgeable to trust yourself, understand yourself, and guide yourself.

Make your own life, perspectives, goals, and purpose of life. For this purpose, please make it the best version of you, to make the best version of nature, healthy, smart, abundant. Use technology for the betterment of everyone. And most importantly, make your purpose to live for better future generations. And for this purpose, if your family, friends, or community does not support your idea and life. Just silently leave and find people who care about life and earth and future.

You have to sacrifice your human fellow, family, friends who are destroying life, nature and future. I don't mean to blame them, quarrel with them, fight with them, just leave in silence. We can try to inspire them with our actions, choices, ideas, lifestyle thought. We can be an example to them too.

Filter Teacher & School

"Ask questions more and more specially to yourself, your parents, your friends, gurus, politicians, leaders, doctors, scientists, and especially your teachers. ask them why they are reading these chapters, why they are preparing for it? Ask about real problems in the real world? How to solve them? Share your personal problems and ask them questions to solve them. Ask them to help you fix your furnitures, toilets, electronics, computers, accounting at home and business, exercise, and routines, ask them to reach you to do real business, ask them to teach you farming and about food, ask them to teach you about your body (mind, body and soul) and its bond with nature and cosmos, ask them to teach about real history and different religions, ask them to teach you about real life skills. Ask them to reach art and music and sports.

See humans are capable to think, work, and lead at the age of 13. Yes. if we had such a system. Well and if your teachers start saying find some people to do those work, pay plumber, pay electricians, hire accountant and all. Declare revolution in your school. What good are these schools and educations and teachers who can't help solve real problems from the start? What are you going to school for? What future do you see going to such an education system? What are you paying for? What are you spending 20+ years in that building for?

Parents too think about where you are sending kids. Make decisions. Go to school, meet teachers, meet education boards, and start questioning. I am sure you don't want your kids becoming more dumb.

See if you think you are busy and have stopped questioning, you are dead already. Wake up. "

Filter Your Needs, Wants & Desires

Needs are what you need to survive on Earth.

Wants are triggered by your experiences, feelings, emotions, and social media most of the time now, celebrities, influence, advertisements, etc.

Most of them are brain washed, addicted, manipulated by mass media, celebrity culture, comparison, jealousy, etc. we want what we see others having it.

Let me help you simplify.

Go for local, organic, quality, home made, cultural foods, not factory packed, social hype foods and drinks.

Go for fresh air not city, polluted, box room air.

Go for a peaceful environment, not into constant sounds of people, machines, electronics, etc

Go for fresh and local water, not packed in plastic bottles, from another part of the world.

Go for natural views, sounds, temperature in the environment, not man made structures.

Go for knowledge and wisdom, not for propaganda, lies, manipulations, etc

Go for supportive, progressive, community, not controlling, lazy, unsupportive, etc

Go for world travel, cultures, not tourist sight seeing, social posts, sponsored places.

Go for self reliant, independence, freedom, not corporates, groups, control.

Go for natural, not chemical, factory processed, covered. Go for truth, go for roots.

These are needed to develop into better beings, to pass your genes in a better way to future generations.

Part 3 CHALLENGES

(Design Tasks) after this journey. Moving to the next level.

Start traveling. With as little money as possible, find ways to get things without money. Remember money is one easy and short cut which will narrow your ability to think and innovate and improvise life. And also remember to become no one while you travel. No one has to know where you came from, what your parents are and what they do, how much money you have, what you have studied and what your professions are. Just be no one, tell different stories to different people. More than telling about you, ask more things about people and where you are, culture and all.

A few sample hands on, lifestyle shifting challenges:

Always have a sense of past, present and future. how, where and when to use every time frame in life.

7 day silent observation of self and

Go to vipassana once early in life.

Go to live among christians, hindus, muslims, buddhist, Jews, but don't attach yourself to any One belief, keep changing, keep exploring.

Find place to volunteer (organic/permaculture farms, orphanages, schools, skill based workshops, elderly houses, like carpentry, yoga and meditation centers, electricity, mechanical, pottery, art and craft projects and businesses, ironsmith, etc, again, keep changing places)

Keep journals (dream, facts, food intakes, emotions, plans, timetable, etc). Also practice writing with both hands altering days, try also writing in different languages every page and hand. Use simple arts, sketches, etc too. Again, keep changing and trying new things.

Recall first memories (self, family, love, hate, anger, fear, happiness, sacrifice, goal, passions, hobbies, skills, separations, etc)

Live one week without spending money, then one month. Try alternative ways to get what you want. Tell stories, exchange time, skills, stories, materials, goods, etc.

Cook meal only from what nature around you gives,

Design your ideal 24 hour rhythm, then live it and keep seasons too into consideration. Every season is different and it has a different effect on mood and motivations. Learn to use them wisely.

Sleep in multiple different villages, farms, projects, places. At Least for a month at one place. Don't go around like a tourist. Live there, following the local way, not your way. Adopt and learn to change and see from their local lenses and perspectives of life.

Draw your family tree + design a regenerative version. Meet them. See what they are doing. See blood relations are that important. How many you don't know. How many don't care. etc.

Design a multi skilled income system for yourself. But don't let money be your motivation. Let your passion to explore, experience and succeed be your guiding force. Help others to help you back as a community and after effect. Help without expecting too.

Give your skills to a stranger, community, society, future or orphanage for a day. Expect nothing. Just practice giving without caring who you are giving to, poor, rich, able, disabled, thief, police, dont care, just give without any story.

Write 1 letter to your future child. Whether you send it or not does not matter. But think of what you want to give to them. What kind of environment do you want them to grow in? What nature will you provide? Fresh air, land, climate, etc. what education will you give? What food will you give? What life examples do you want to be informed of? What legacy do you want to leave? Please don't write your expectations over them. Tell them instead to be independent and free.
